Big Red Spin on Life

In a dizzying tornado of calendar month flipping, the Big Reds put their own spin on this school year.

With the heat of the summer in the air, seniors sauntered into the building on September forth ready to be in charge. Days flew by, sending some of their minds into a spin. Moments later they strutted out in caps and gowns on June fourth.

Juniors rotated the dates up a notch, for their own turn around was now one short year away. "It's going to be hard to get all the money to do all the things we want to do for Senior year," remarked Brit-tanie Ealy (09).

Upperclassmen had help from a few sophomores while they tackled the job of mentoring freshmen and organizing activities as part of the Big Red Wave-the new program to help ninth graders feel less anxious about the start of school. This new approach was designed to help the youngest group feel like they belonged as Big Reds.

Using all their brain power was a necessity for the class of 2011 who had to face the new graduation requirements, the freshmen overcome all expectations.

Even the faculty and staff faced changes trying the recent curriculum and working with their new boss Ms. Jan Barrett.

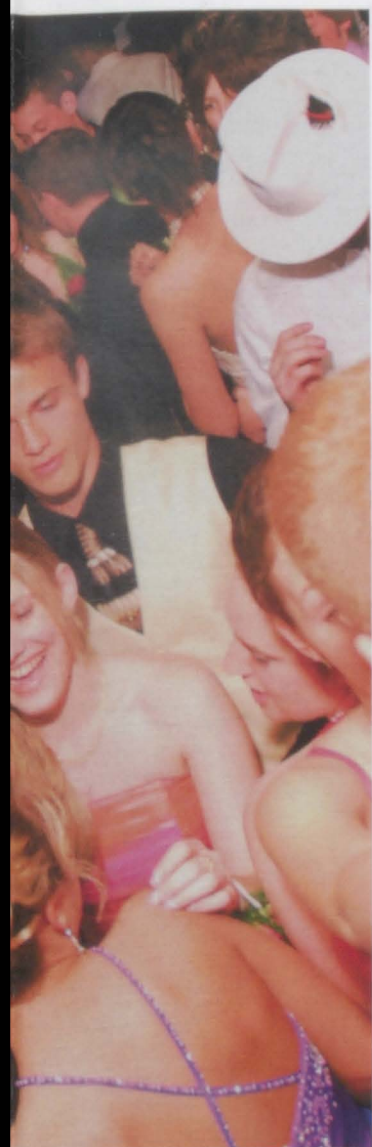

As is true of so many years, a convoluted and twisting path led all the Big Reds through their goals and onto others.

Students work on putting the red outline skirting around the bottom of the Sophomore Float.

Dominic McDowell (08) colors her Pinwheel for Peace during Mrs. Fulton's sixth hour.

Seniors dance to the music, as they enjoy their final high school dance.

The BRMM cheers the Football Team on while making their way to the playoffs.

Marching Band Students enjoy a beautiful Saturday Afternoon at Cedar Point as a celebration for a great season.

Twist and Shout

With a twist and a shout the year began. The new twist came with the addition of the freshman orientation program--Big Red Wave. The shout came with the student section "The Tribe" at football and basketball games.

Big Red Wave trained upperclassmen, individually each showed around a group of about 10 freshmen to get them accustomed being Big Reds. "I felt the programs showed students everything they needed to know and made their first few weeks at school run smoothly," said Amber Duncan (08).

Another way students showed their spirit was through The Tribe. "We wanted a way for students to all sit together and cheer together, and be one big group," commented Christopher Mix (08), one of the founders. "Everyone is welcome to join." Students gathered by the band and the cheerleaders during the football games. The Tribe was also seen at basketball games. Tribe members stood out in their matching red shirts.

Of course, Student Life was not without its Aggravation and Trouble, considering the changes in curriculum, classes over their limits, and extended schedule changes.

During the homecoming season, the classes ran into trouble. With the time running out on floats, students scrambled to get done; but the freshman class won. At the Games Assembly the seniors and juniors tied for first place.

Students sporting The Tribe shirts were seen at all the home football games, cheering along the team.

In Art class, Katie Walpole (10) puts her pinwheel together for the nationwide Pinwheels for Peace Day.

During focus time, Big Red Wave mentors gather with the freshmen.

Senior Shawna DeRosia, takes a twirly ride in her spare time at a local park.

At the Homecoming dance, Elizabeth Burgess (08), Megan Torello (10), and Kaitlin Addley (08), take a break from dancing.

Amoré Italiano

As a night of "Amoré Italiano" unraveled, the senior class danced across the Crystal Gardens glittering floor on May 19 from 7 pm to 11.

At the entryway the seniors were greeted by their teachers and the juniors, who checked in the partygoers. Once in the banquet hall, the seniors saw tables decorated with a simplistic weight-held red, gold, and purple balloons with 175 more in a net for the balloon drop. "The atmosphere was perfect; everyone was having a good time," Lindsay Payton (07).

Along the back wall there was a fountain where seniors drenched sweet treats and fruit with milk chocolate. Partygoers could get soda drinks all night at the bar.

Once the first slow song began, the seniors took to the floor in pairs. The night picked up speed as the DJ played continuous mixes.

Adding to their trendsetting record, the class voted for Prom King Ryan O'Connor who received a GKC $25 certificate, and Queen Laura Towns received a tiara and a bouquet of 6 roses. "Having a king and queen was a good idea; I hope we continue it," said Sydney Secory (08).

As the night came to a close, the seniors picked up their memory-filled senior video.

"It was a fun experience that I will always remember," said Shannon Robbins (07). "Prom was a blast this year; I am excited with how it went," Kathy Weller (07).

Chase McFarlane (07) and Predrag Stevic (07) thank Mrs. Lori Shymko for all she has done.

The senior class voted Laura Towns 2007 Prom Queen and Ryan O'Connor 2007 Prom King.

Randy-Lynn Hinkley (06) and Aaron Fiscelli (07) decide on a photo package to order.

Once this group checked in, they claimed a table to keep their items at.

Ashley Finch, Kathy Weller, and Angelina Taylor enjoy a moment as seniors with former principal, Mr. Ron Wollen.

"2008 is our year, time to be free
and have no fear!"

This was the sound of the Senior class showing their spirit at the fall Games Assembly. Their loud voices and spirit won them the Pep Jug along with a winning attitude that continued throughout the day. Their energetic determination brought home a win for the Varsity football team against Port Huron Northern and the Brick Fowler Trophy that has been gone for far too long. For the seniors on the team, this was a very emotional and proud moment since this was one of their goals from the beginning of the season. Also, the Varsity soccer team had an undefeated season for the second year in a row. This team consisted of mainly seniors and it was a great way to end their soccer season.

The officers leading the Class of 2008 were Tira Forsyth, Jessica Kindle, Abbey Bates, Melissa Bailey, Karlie Livingston and Shawna DeRosia. "The Senior float didn't come out as expected, but everyone did a fantastic job building it and helping in different ways. The float received 4th place this year, but they worked very hard on it and it turned out very well."

"Helping build the float was exciting, Telissa Donaldson and I got to make Cinderella's shoe sparkle!" said Kassandra Russell (08).

Enjoy Fun in the Sun

It's the time of the year that students long for. Students crave it. They feel for it. They need... a break! Whether it be Spring Break or Summer Vacation, students can't wait to be free of school and teachers.

Spring Break and Summer Vacation are the stress free, relaxing days from studying. The only hard thing about it was figuring out the perfect destination.

Whether it's going on a cruise and exploring the deep blue sea, or just staying at a close friend's house for the weekend, students get a little rest.

"My friends and I all hung out at my house and had a movie night; the next morning my mother made us all breakfast," said George Armitage, (08)

While some spend time at exotic places such as distant lands and far off remote islands, others spend their vacation time a little closer to home.

Cynthia Goble (10) drove to Armada for a Rodney Atkins evening concert at the fairgrounds.

"Most people tend to go places, but I love to stay home and hang out with my friends at my house. This way we all still have fun and we save our money!" said Amanda Lash (10).

For Angel Burck (11) the Mall of America in Minnesota was the greatest.

Spring Break and Summer Vacation are a must have in the lives of students and the staff; everyone can use a little time off to enjoy the great weather that comes along.

Steven Ledsworth (08) and Tod Johnston (08) try on hats at the Alcona Canoe campground in Glennie.

Casandra Bennett (08) and Danielle Cline (07), hang out on the pier in Cocoa Beach, Florida.

Up North having fun, seniors Courtney Jonseck, Stacey O'Neill, Sydney and Samantha Secory and Kristin Baker.

Riding the waves in Traverse City, Julie Oliver (09) and Justin Bowles (09) make a statement on the jet ski.

Travis McBride (10) and his family savor the moment at Disney World in Florida over Spring Break.

Be Our Guest

"Be Our Guest, Please Be Our Guest" was the show stopper of the night, for the 2007 musical Beauty and the Beast.

The musical consisted of many characters from Belle and the Beast to the furniture and utensils.

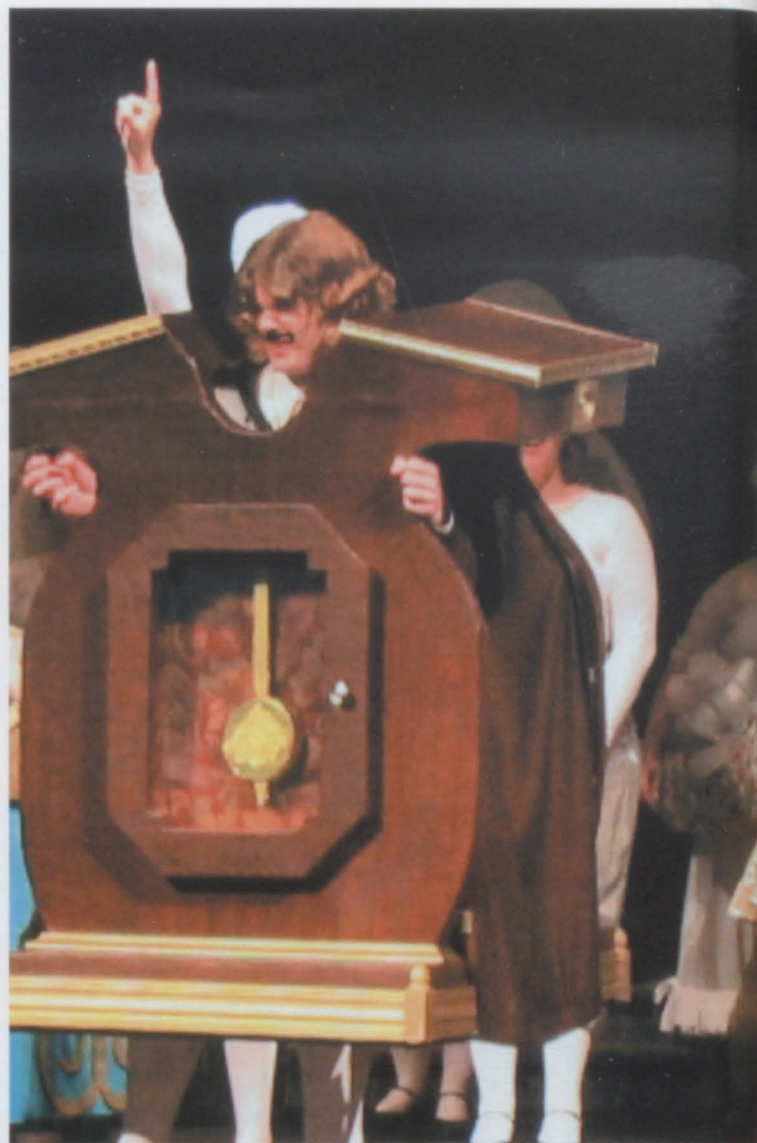

Most of the main characters were played by seniors; Belle brought to life by Halley Bolt, the Beast portrayed by Luke Sheldon, Ms. Potts played by Ashley Finch, Lumiere played by William Rock, Cogsworth played by Alexander Meyer, and Madam Grande La Boucha played by Aubrey Dixon. But another main role, that of Gaston was played by Kavik Bressette (08), and Maurice was played by Dalton Carlisle (08).

The actors and actresses worked many hours, days, and weeks on making the performance perfection. They worked four days a week for almost two months and it paid off. With seven shows many of the performers were happy to see the show come to an end.

On Saturday night after the last show the cast tore down the set and then headed over to the Huron Physical Art Center for a night of walking across high beams, getting thrown into the foam pit and doing high jumps onto mats. The party was three hours long but seemed longer. The Huron Physical Arts Center was gracious enough to let the drama club have the cast party at their facility.

Most of the costumes from the show were hand made by the producer Micki LaPla. The rest were on loan from Marysville High School who had done the production a year earlier.

Halley Bolt (07) sings her heart out at the performance of Beauty and the Beast.

Lumiere played by William Rock (07), lit up the stage with his performance.

Keeping time, Cogsworth played by Alexander Meyer (07) ticks into action.

The Beast, Luke Sheldon (07), is feared by all except Beauty, who sees him for what he truly is.

Cast members come back for an encore after a great performance.

Working Together

Lost, nervous freshman had a chance to cut their anxiety. How, you ask? With the Big Red Wave of course! And everyone got the chance to belong, through The Tribe.

Seniors and Juniors gathered three times during their summer for training and set up, to become either mentors or workers for one of the activities on August 28, 2007.

"The Big Red Wave was an awesome experience, I wish they had had it when I was a freshman," said Joshua Goodrich (08).

Mentors were each given a list of ten freshmen from Mrs. Erin Eastman, whom they would help throughout the year.

Behind closed doors, the other half of the volunteer students put their own spin on the Big Red Wave, with skits about expectations and bullying.

They also turned out an interactive "What-Not-To-Wear" fashion show, and a scavenger hunt with the help of teachers and assistant principals who talked about the importance of graduating.

Not only did the Big Red Wave provide student social interaction before the first day, but also a chance for new students to get used to the school and staff.

For the first time in a long time the student section at the football and basketball games got some recognition and became The Tribe. These fans made the cheerleaders job easier as they yelled encouragement to the teams.

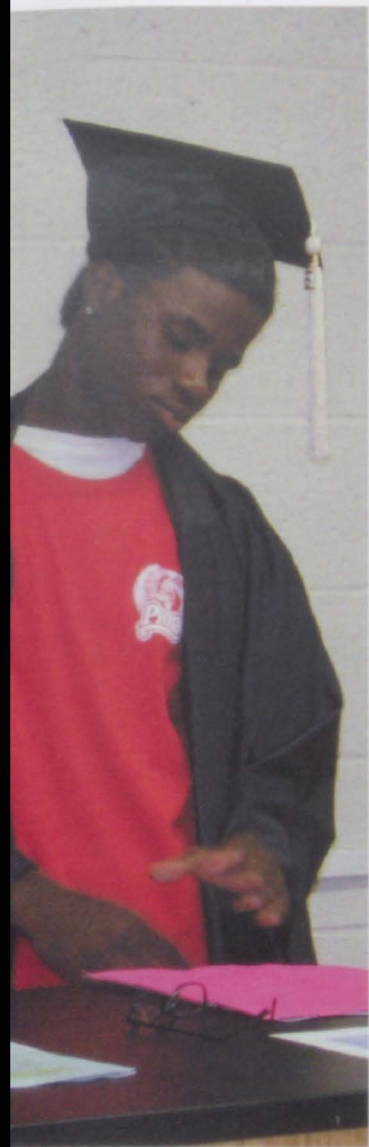

In a skit Karlie Livingston (08), Kristen Langolf (10) and Colby Alexis (10) show not to fear upperclassmen.

Jochlynn Young (08) and Donta Johnson (08) put on an anti-bullying 101 skit.

The Tribe show their spirit and support at a varsity football game.

The Freshman lined up in the gym for a Truth Line to help break the ice on orientation day.

Clued into Mystery

One hundred ninety strong, the Big Red Marching Machine led the Homecoming parade with such favorites as "The Fight Song," "You Can Call Me Al," and "Allstar".

As the paraders marched on they entertained the anxious children from Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson elementary schools, as well as Trinity Lutheran School.

Following not far behind the band were the PHHS cheerleading teams. They made it their job to get the crowd pumped for everything coming up next.

Behind the cheerleaders were this year's Parade Marshals Mr. and Mrs. Blackney, alumni and scholarship sponsors; Ms. Barrett, principal and Mr.

Shorkey, superintendent.

Next came the king and queen of 2006, Jonathan Blake and Erin Jones.

Each class had its court members first, then their entry. Behind the seniors' king and queen candidates, the senior float "Who's our Cinderella?" took fourth place.

Juniors and "It's No Mystery Who Will Win", while showing the Pink Panther took second place,

In third place was "Beware of 2010", the sophomore float.

The first place winner was the freshmen Scooby Doo themed entry with "The Mystery of the Lost Lansers".

The end of the parade featured future Big Red students, and the Chipewewa Student Council.

Seniors got the chance to ride in Big Red style, as they cruised through town in the trolley.

The pumpkin carriage adorned the first float to roll out, begging the question "Who's our Cinderella?"

The first place Freshmen float is proudly pulled down the parade route.

Awaiting the start of the parade, the Pink Panther guards the Junior Float.

The Sophomores were represented by a skull that sang top the tunes of "The Monster Mash."

Secrets Revealed

Spirit took a 180° turn with the theme Mystery at Midnight and the Pep Assembly.

Monday brought a sneaky Cat Snatch Day where students dressed in black to sneak through the halls and into classes.

Students went all out for Tuesday which was labeled James Bond Day with the latest in spy fashion – dark sunglasses, watches and formal disguises.

“Spirit Week gives the students a way to express their school spirit in an amusing way,” said Junior Andrew Price.

Wednesday was set aside as Disguise Day, where students wore sunglasses, trench coats and hats.

On Thursday students and teachers alike threw aside their secret identities and came to terms as true super heroes.

Friday kept things traditional in a typical way with the honorary Red, and White Day. But there was one small twist; students and teachers could also wear hats and jeans.

After a dance contest and a detective dress up race the scores were unveiled. Freshmen came in fourth, Sophomores slipped into third and together like cat burglars the Juniors and Seniors stole first place.

Of course, the Pep Assembly helped raise school spirit a notch or two. With the introduction of the varsity teams, fans got a chance to thank the athletes with some major yelling! Seniors took first to win.

The Varsity cheerleaders proudly display the class chant, as they join the seniors in shouting it.

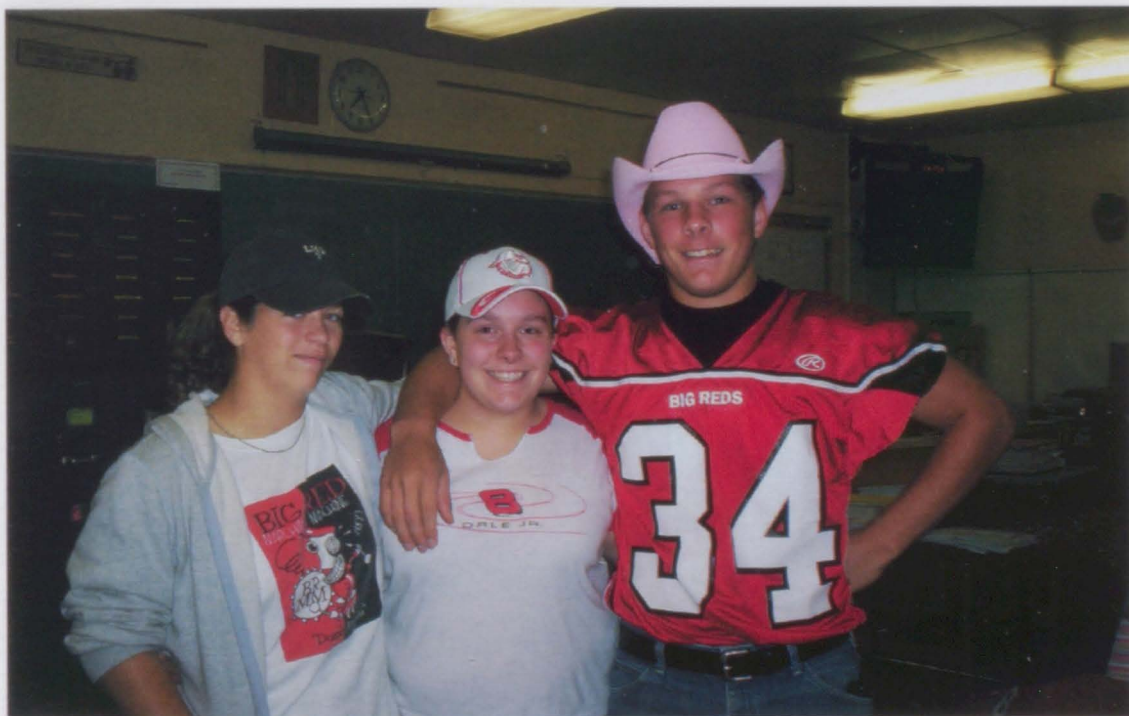

During Spirit Week, Breana Valdez (09) gives her own rendition of a caped super hero.

During the pep assembly, the Varsity cheerleaders get the crowd energized.

The Varsity football team gets pumped up for the big homecoming game.

Stephanie Mierendorff (08), Amanda Parker (10), and Richard Mierendorff (10) show off their snazzy hats.

As The Mystery Unfolds

Entering through the flagpole doors, partygoers formed four lines at check-in tables. Beyond this point the mystery unfolded.

Dancers glided through a black and silver balloon archway with symmetrically-placed moon stands.

Once inside the ballroom (gym), three more archways expanded from bleacher rail to bleacher rail. Multi-colored stars twinkled from gossamer black fabric covering the walls.

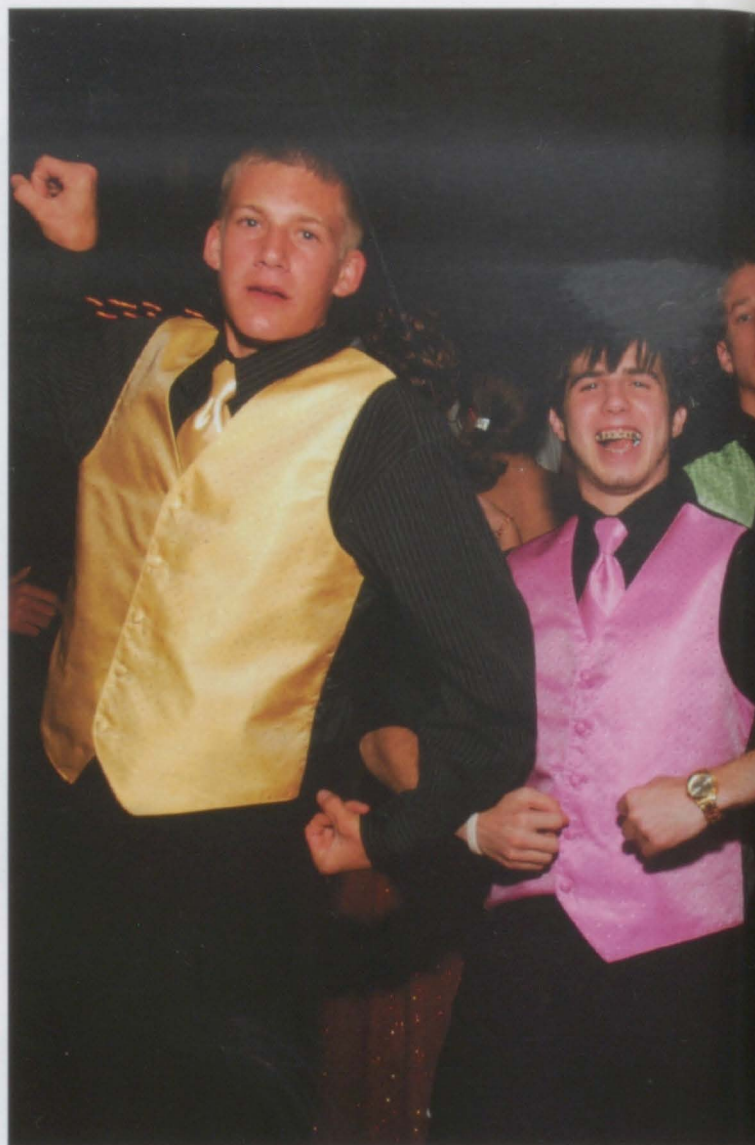

Justin Gardner, (08) said "Homecoming was hype; I think it was the best one."

The mysteries were solved when the student body discovered that the freshmen were represented by Lord Theodore Krause, and ladies Ciara Francisco, and Hope Telfer. Duke Steven Sawher and Duchesses Krystal Draveling, and Jenette Vasser led the sophomores' votes. Prince Durrand Ashford and Princesses Emily Shinavier, and Karissa Vanslyke acted for the juniors. The king candidates were Jordan Brown, Kevin Johnson, and Micheal Page.

Queen candidates included Chelsey Bonney, Anna Crawford, and Colleen Lum.

The silent crowd waited for the final mystery to be solved; the envelope arrived. The King was Kevin Johnson and his Queen was Chelsey Bonney, who said, "It's my first time running so I felt privileged to receive this honor as my chance to be on court."

For Homecoming, a group of friends posed under the Blue Water Bridge for some photos.

Savoring the moment, Daniel Eyrich (09) and Julianne Martin (10) take time to smile for the camera.

Seniors Luke Privette, Scott Werner, Jeremy Davis, Steven Ledsworth ham it up.

Throughout the dance, guests were entertained with their favorite music.

Play the Game of Life

In the Big Red Spin on Life, people command front row, center ring, and top of the heap. Vying for attention, students jump into a whirlwind of relationships. And so goes the game of Life.

Friendships make the teen world go round and the amount of cell phone use rang up huge totals in talk time and text messaging.

"I would die without my cell phone," said Amanda Parker (10). According to Kristi Radatz (09), "Text messaging is very addictive, in fact, I over-did it a bit and got grounded for a month because the bill was an extra $75."

"I need my friends to talk to and help me through the hard times," said Daysha Anderson (10).

If life is a game then how much fun or security can a student get by having a brother or sister in the same high school building?

As far as having a sibling in the same school, Curtis Senyk (11) said, "It's good and bad; she looks out for me, but she also gets into my personal business."

Sometimes students need to find a retreat from the hectic pace.

For Kody Hoffman (11) good relationships are maintained near the water. "Normally, I fish three times a week; it's relaxing with relatives and friends."

Each year a full 360 degree turn brings students from the end of summer to the start of classes, then back to the close of another school year.

Ashley Ahles (08), Jackie Frefenborough (08), and Janae Nolan (08) enjoy their last Homecoming.

Students in Mr. Rock Steven's sixth hour Psychology class take part in the Trust Walk.

After searching for Halloween costumes, students gather in the mall.

Cheering for the school sports teams is a common thing for friends to do. Here were seniors Ashley Ahles, Elizabeth Hartman, Jennifer Westley, and Ashley Morris.

At the band lock-in, Mr. Dan Griffith presses his luck by riding the mechanical bull.

Final Moments

Senior year is a crucial time, from ACT and SAT scores to graduation. The year also included the final moments as a kid, being able to beg parents for help and/or money. The end of these moments hit home with the senior activities.

To kick off their activities, the group voted on their class flower, motto, and color. The senior class song traditionally was played at the senior prom, while it was performed by graduating seniors at the Senior Assembly and commencement.

In preparation for the graduating class to reach alumni status, the seniors endured three long days of practices. Marching practice has always been the honorary chore before graduating as a Big Red.

practice has always been the honorary chore before graduating as a Big Red.

On day one the seniors were seated in their pictorial arrangement and then they learned their left foot from their right foot. During these practices the marching instructor was Mr. Vandenberg who came from Florida to keep the tradition alive.

Underclassmen took their seats in the bleachers, while the seniors prepared to enter the gym on their Senior Assembly day. After all the awards and speeches, the seniors filed out of the gym in perfect step.

As a final high school student memory, the seniors marched into McMorran Arena with lit candles and an unlit atmosphere. The seniors listened intently for their names to be called so they could receive their diplomas. After the last name was called, the principal told the class to move their tassels to the right, and the newly honored graduates tossed up their diplomas with glee before the procession out.

Following the Commencement, the new alumni gathered back at Port Huron High for their first class reunion. They partied, were hypnotized, and even became bull riders at the all night party. As the seniors left for whatever future was before them, they continued to be a part of the motto, "Once a Big Red, always a Big Red!"

Above: At the all night party, the hypnotist finds victims willing to look silly.

Right: Traditionally the seniors are arranged in a red and white design.

Kyle Mark Sawher

Kyle Mark Sawher born September 4, 1990, passed away on September 9, 2007. Kyle was loved by those who knew him, and known by all who attended Port Huron High. Steven Sawher, his brother, also attends PH.

John Cavis, a close friend to Kyle will best remember him as an awesome friend and one of the most fun people to be around. They were usually doing things with close friends, Richard Jock, Nick King, Jay Edwards, Eric Bradbury, and Kevin Johnson. Kyle was crazy about his girlfriend Sarah Johnson; he constantly talked about her and most days and was with her, along with his other friends.

To help support the Sawher family and remember Kyle, his friends ordered Remember Bands with 'Kyle M. Sawher' on them and bumper stickers with his life dates. The Tribe paid tribute to Kyle, a true Big Red, by adding his initials to the back of their t-shirts.

Kyle will never be forgotten and will always be in our hearts. We, PHHS students and staff, love and miss you, Kyle.

"Hey guys how's my smile?!"

- Kyle M. Sawher

2007-2008 Foreign Exchange Students: Nico Froelich of Germany, Anri Misawa of Japan, Marina Schonhoff of Germany, Leonard Jaehrig of Germany.

New Country New Experiences

We might wear the same pair of shoes in and outside the classroom, but imagine removing your shoes before you enter school to put on another pair. To Anri Misawa of Japan, this was an every day practice of cleanliness.

The exchange students discovered that there were many differences between the American way and theirs. Marina Schonhoff attended church in Port Huron, and stated, "It's very different to my normal church in Germany." Another difference is that in Germany and Japan you must be 18 years old to drive. The tools we use to prepare food are different. "I enjoy can opener. That's sweet! Amazing!" stated Anri Misawa.

Involvement counts! Nico Froelich and Leonard Jaehrig were both on the Junior Varsity Football Team this year. Marina Schonhoff joined the Swim Team. Anri Misawa sang in the choir.

These experiences gave them a taste of life with a Big Red Spin.

*Luke,
Grab life by the throat and hang on!*

*We love you,
Dad, Mom, Steven, Renee, and Amos*

Luke Privette

We know all your dreams will come true!

*Love,
Mom, Dad, Lina, Jesse, and Ella*

Jess,

You started life so small, you weren't able to walk, just crawl. You grew up so big and fast, now yesterday is in the past. Now thank god you're done at last.

*Love,
Mom and Dad*

Jessica Long

Janelle,

We are so proud of you. Now it's your turn to reach for the stars. Work hard and you'll achieve your dreams.

*Love,
Mom, Dad, Josh, Jamie, and Jessica*

events and fund raisers, while pushing for a show of class spirit in school competitions.

For two years in a row, the Senior Class was led by two presidents instead of one.

The Juniors decided to mix it up, and they voted in a whole new group of officers. Also, they added a Junior Prom for the first time since 2001.

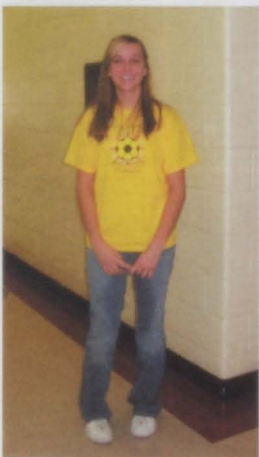

Taking a different spin on Big Red life, the Sophomore Class included a new position within the class officers' group called Ombudsman.

The Freshman Class officers started the year by leading them to a win--first place in Homecoming floats, which hasn't happened since 1998 by the Class of 2001.

Class of 2010:

President: Natalie Sullivan (Not Pictured)
Vice President: Colby Alexis (At Right)
Secretary: Shelby Chisholm (Not Pictured)

Ms. Barrett Greets PH

Ms. Janet Lane Barrett went through Oakland University always knowing she'd be serving the needs of children, although she never pictured being the principal of a high school.

She not only became the new principal, Ms. Barrett became the first female principal for PHHS.

Her goals are to make a positive difference to several students a day, and to see smiles on the students' faces. Lastly, she wants to be role model to each of her students.

One of the joys for her is to go out daily with other administrators to the buses. There they tell students how happy they are for them to be here. She said she gets some weird reactions, but she still enjoys letting them know she cares.

Ms. Barrett also is proud of all her students for being in the many activities and sports, such as The Tribe, showing the support they have for one another.

Being a principal brought new experiences. Ms. Barrett said, "now instead of dealing with children's problems, I'm dealing with adults more and more. I have longer hours than ever before, but taking one day at a time makes it go much smoother."

"This is the greatest school, with the best students. They have wonderful attitudes. I would never dream of leaving PH."

In With The New

Teachers this year were spinning with anticipation about the new curriculum.

New teachers to the Big Red Country were Christopher Kozlowski, Karla Beedon, Trish Kinnee, Kelly Florence, and Dan Perk.

All PH teachers banded together about concerns with the curriculum.

Some teachers said the most worrisome thing about the new curriculum is "... the lack of individual choice; students should choose the classes that suit their skills," said Ms. Michelle Jex. Although skeptical of the new curriculum, teachers are hoping that this will help students prepare for the future. "This is my dream job" said Ms. Denise McCaffrey.

Mystery Around the Building

With a rough start, and a bit of sanding, things smoothed out as float building began. All mysteries were solved when the completed floats paraded through town.

Although new to float building, freshmen captured first with Scooby Doo and Shaggy hanging out the windows of the Mystery Machine in "Mystery of the Lost Lancers".

"The most fun about float building was hanging out with my friends," said Shelby Conard (11)

In second place the juniors' Pink Panther searched a football field with a giant magnifying glass for two huge paw prints. The motto was, "It's No Mystery Who Will Win."

The sophomores' float was an enormous skull with a moving jaw. A headstone and the theme "Beware 2010" added to the eerie mystery of their third place win.

Representing the classic tale of Cinderella, the seniors built the fourth place float. A magical carriage waited for her to enter.

"Float building is a great way to meet your classmates," said Stephanie Mierendorff (08).

Far Rt: Brittanie Ealy (09) duct tapes yard lines on the field of the junior float.

Casandra Bennett, JoLisa Ervin, Ashley Morris, James Pung, Tara Sasu flower. (08)

Sarah-Dane Eggers (08) dresses Cinderella for her appearance at the Royal Ball.

Adding finishing touches, Paytin Shirts helps the freshmen complete the Mystery Machine.

"Float building took more artistic ability than I thought," said Bradley Koehn (11).

Madelyne Harris (10) makes sure all the holes in the chicken wire are covered on the sophomore float.

Spin The Wheel of Success

Waiting for the students, the Vanna White of Port Huron High School, Ms. Jan Barrett, pointed each lucky contestant (better known as new freshmen) on their way to their scheduled prize. Each student won 180 days in six educational classes with a luscious lunch awarded in the middle of each day.

The contestants of Game 2011 were the first to try out an improved version of the school curriculum, a full four years of mathematics, language arts and three years of science. The freshmen were off to a challenging beginning.

Better adjusted to the school, the Juniors and Seniors took on the job of being mentors to freshmen in the Big Red Wave.

The Big Red Wave

leaders wore their vibrant red shirts on the first day of school to show the new students around.

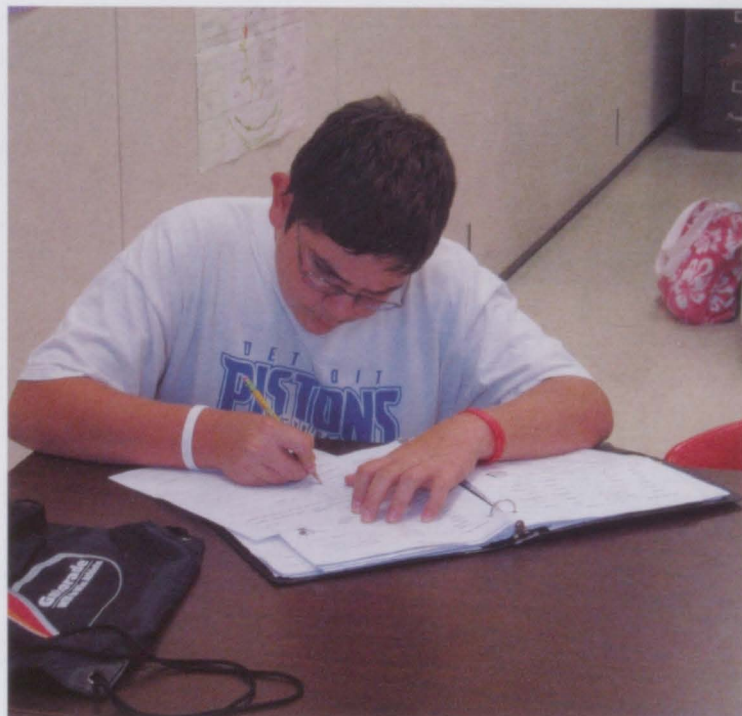

The upperclassmen had the job of creating entertaining but educational activities to help the freshmen acquaint themselves with the building and the people. The Juniors' big prize for the year—prom in March.

The Seniors won the grand prize of marching at McMorran Arena in a candle-lit ceremony. The Class of 2008 dazzled in robes of red and white.

With the Valedictorians leading the way, the graduates marched out of the arena and headed for their all night party. Held at PHHS it signified the first official class reunion for the newly graduated group.

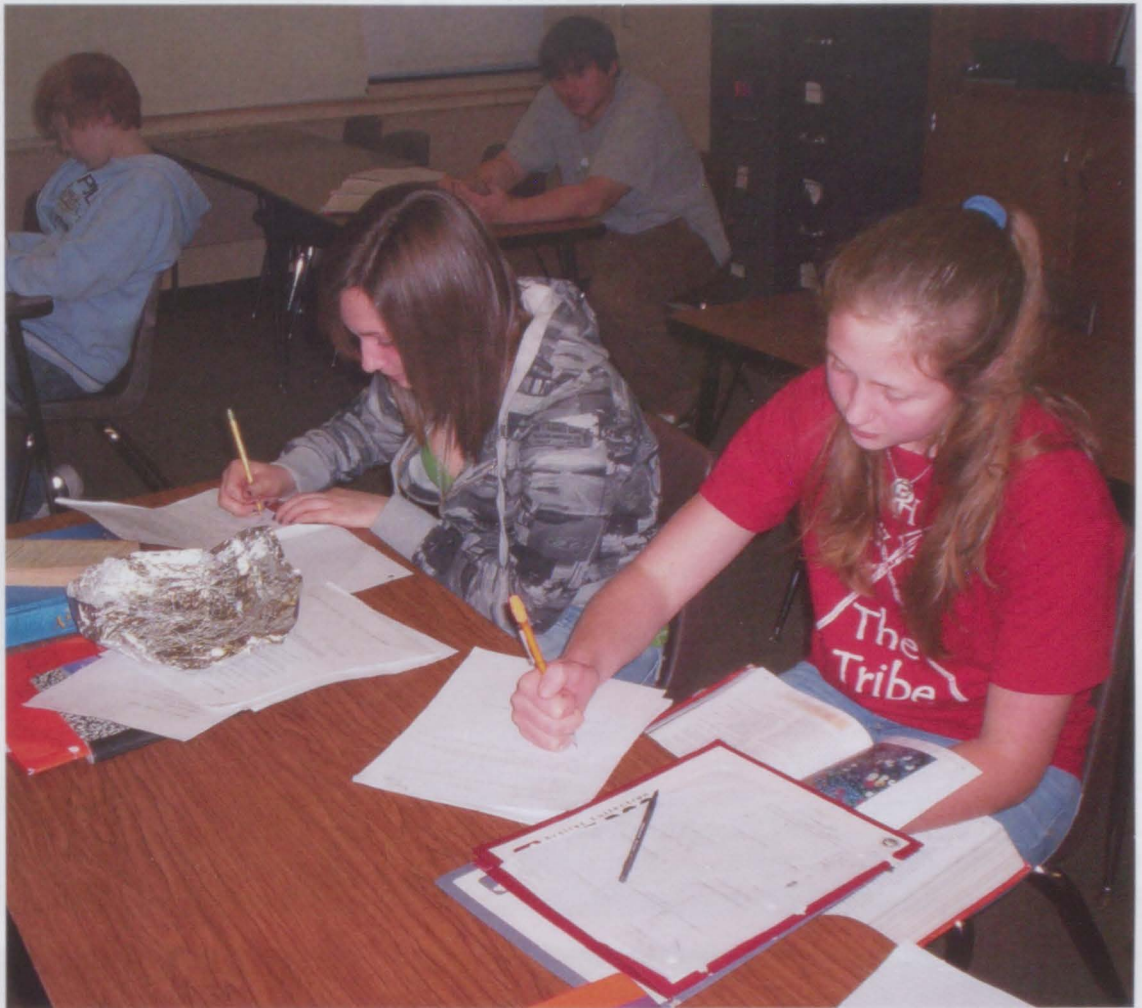

While keeping her attention, Mercedes Lindsay (09) takes notes rapidly while in class.

Ms. Pettingill's Government class made ponchos for the football playoff game.

Freshmen Michelle Perchera and Kimberley Zuehlke multi-task, in Mrs. Zauner's class.

Kaitlin Addley (08) and JoLisa Ervin (07) sketch and shade the final touches to their art projects.

Students Show Off...

One creative way of learning was through projects and presentations. Teachers chose these to enhance various parts of their curriculum.

In Biology, students studied the structure of DNA when they constructed DNA model Christmas ornaments. They also created plant and animal cells.

One of the projects in Geometry was the kite building. Students made kites from tissue paper and straws. After they were finished, they were taken outside and flown. Other projects they included the Cubeoctrahedron, and Pi Day.

In Mrs. Laura Mitchell's Literature class, freshmen participated in Greek

Idol Days while studying The Odyssey

History classes also saw the use of various projects. In Mr. Stevens' American History class, they completed the Decades Project, where students divided into groups, and recreated 1930-1970, through research which was presented to the class, including food from the decade. For Psychology class his students do the Trust Walk.

For Mrs. Jane Zauner's ELA class, students read a novel, created a visual aid and presented highlights. Shakespeare students researched his allusions to explain to classmates what each meant.

Students showed off with clever masterpieces.

In Biology, Samuel Siwula (09) puts the finishing touches on a DNA ornament.

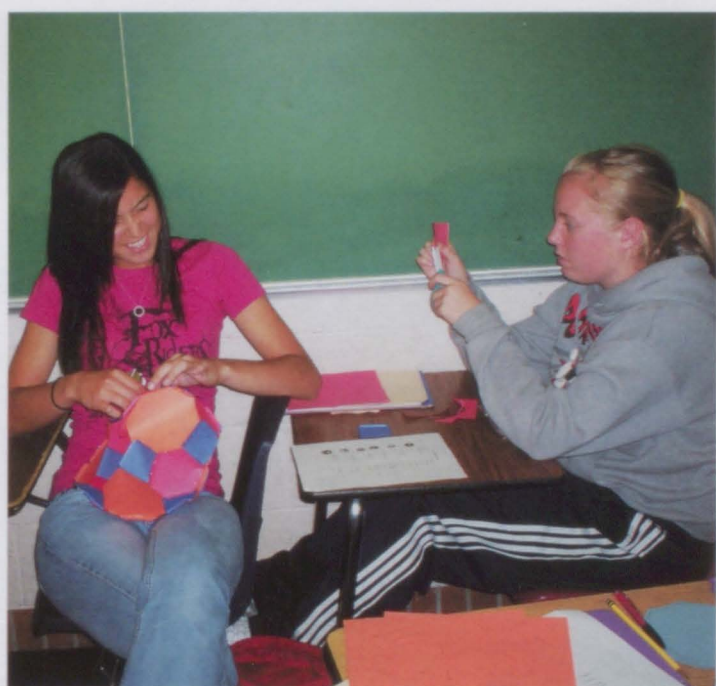

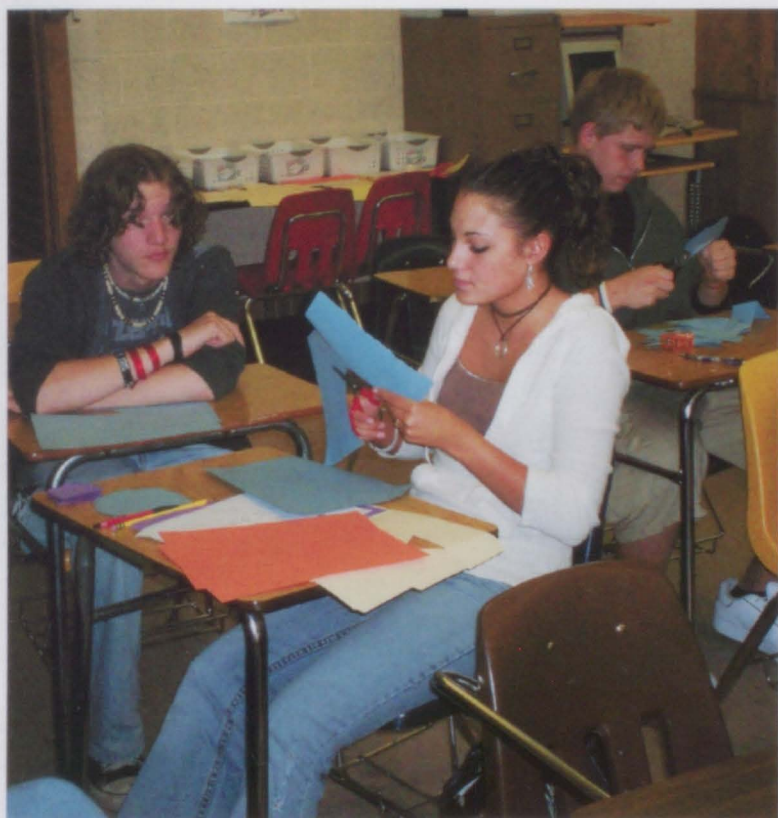

Brandan Arnold (09) and his partner finish their DNA model.

Amber Janderwski (09) and Shaquara Crawford (09) make a cubeoctrahedron.

In Ceramics, Larisha Chisolm (08) works on a bowl using the coil method.

Nicholas I. King (08), and Korene Corby (09) prepare their cubeoctrahedron.

Jacqueline Shonka (08) and Kylie Anger (09) glue their cubeoctrahedron.

Sights and Sounds

Expanding their minds with interesting experiments, the students of Port Huron High School couldn't wait to get started.

One of the famous experiments, the laser light show, was demonstrated by Mr. Robert Weiss. For the production, the room was completely darkened, so the lasers could work at their full potential.

Also popular was the flaming water jug, done by Mr. Michael Allen. In this lab, they proved that water is produced by a combustion reaction.

In the gas bubble lighting lab, dry ice was dropped into a test tube, and students observed the reaction.

Students not only got to experiment with chemicals, but they got to experience working together.

Experiments led the students away from teacher lectures, but they did not work independently. Instead, most labs were done in partners or groups.

"Having lab partners helps students to develop team working skills. It also helps, because you don't always know what to do, so you learn even more," said Sara Miller (09).

With many students in each class, teachers taught safety and insisted on safety glasses and lab aprons.

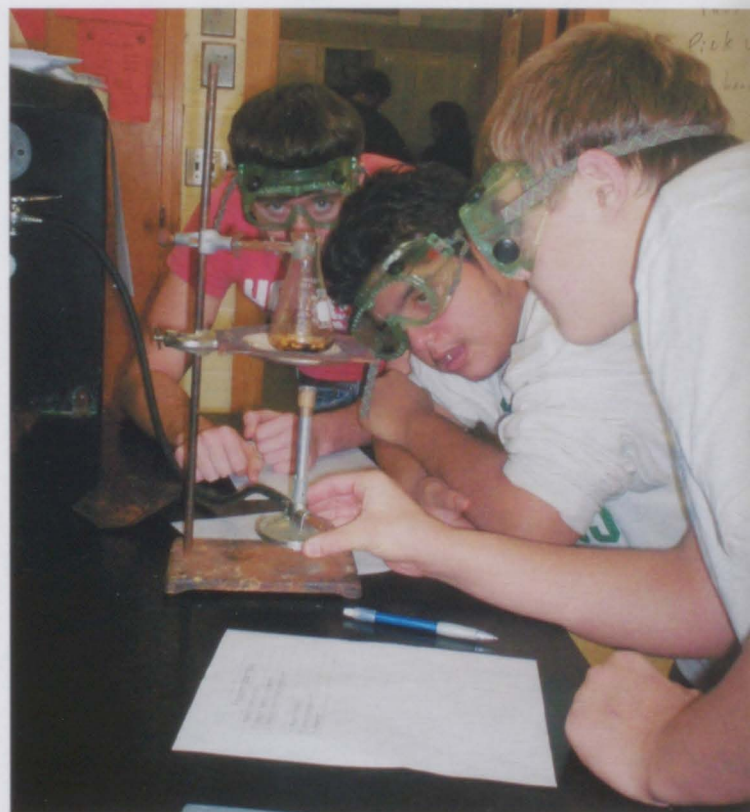

During the the gas bubble lighting, Mr. Robert Weiss watches the reaction.

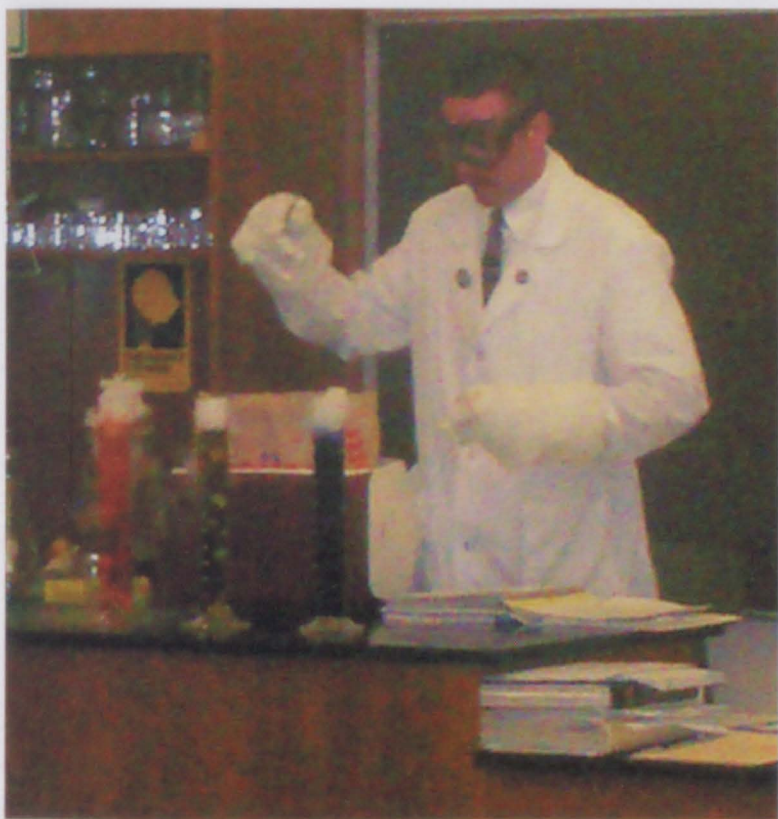

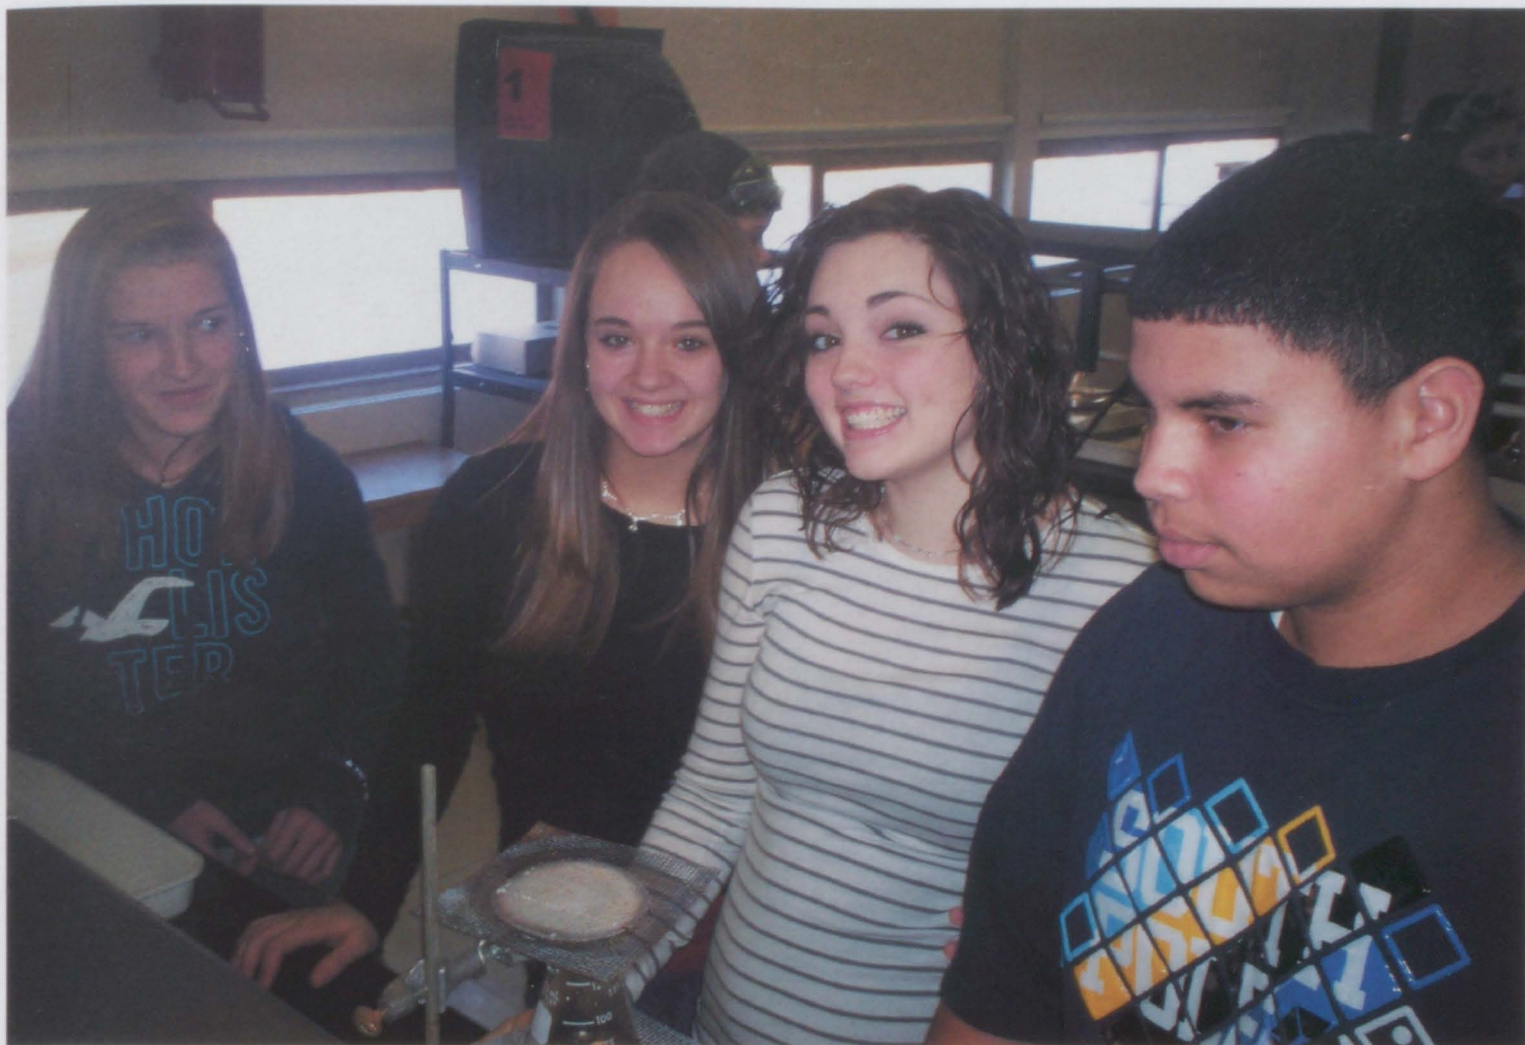

Students in Mr. Michael Allen's chemistry class show their enthusiasm in the lab.

Shelby Baker (10) watches as her lab partner lights the Bunsen burner.

Students place the burner under the beaker and get ready to start their lab.

Mr. Robert Weiss drops dry ice in the test tube to start the gas bubble lighting.

In Chemistry, Sadarah Talbert (09) gets focused for her lab.

Around the Books

Like always, the Media Center was a hub of activity. The computer banks were filled with students working on class assignments or personal research. Reference books also played a backup role.

New fiction left the shelves at a rapid rate, and the classics followed shortly thereafter. The most popular book checked out was Scruffy by Paul Gallica.

Teachers signed their classes up to use the Media Center, from fifteen to thirty classes each week. Ms. Szoke's American History class did several projects down at the Media Center. One project included the formation of the United States.

"I like working down here. There's books and computers with information all in one place," said Justine Gostinger (10).

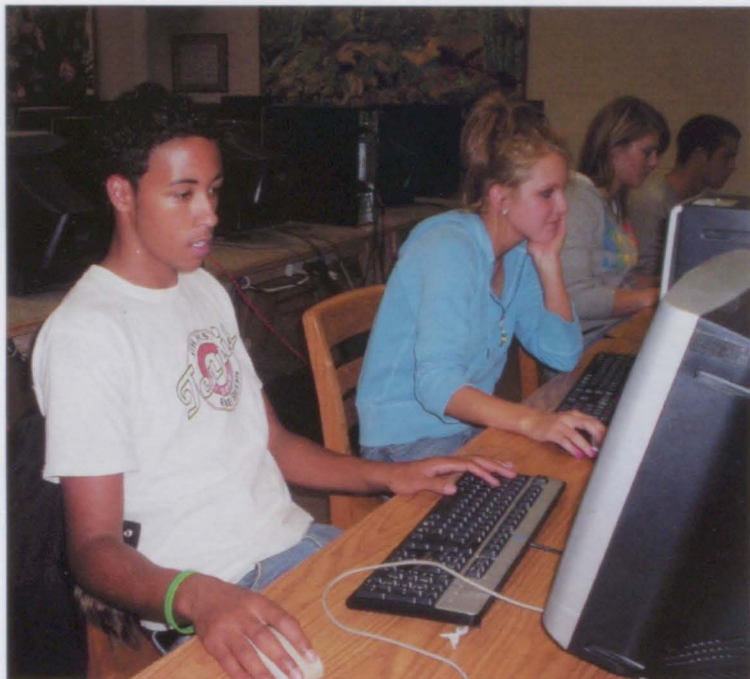

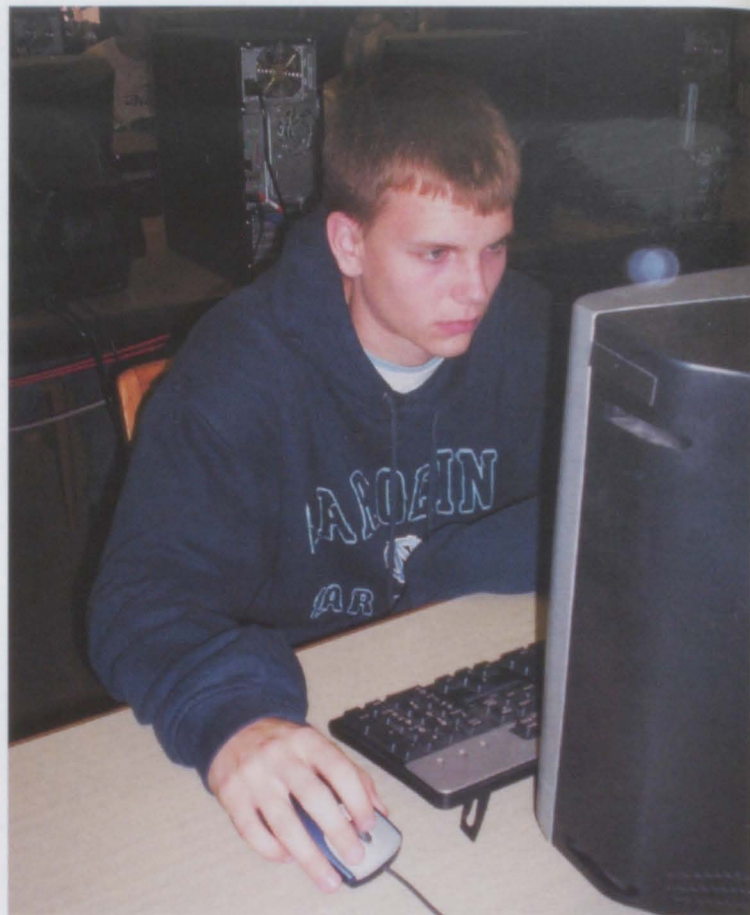

The aides were once again a big help this year, checking out books and organizing everything. Wayne Bell (08), one of the student aides commented, "Yeah I would relate this place as a battlefield. There is just so much intense battling. Everyone wants to check out the same book, and there's just not enough to go around."

What was Mr. McCabe's goal for this year? "To keep from drowning from all the work."

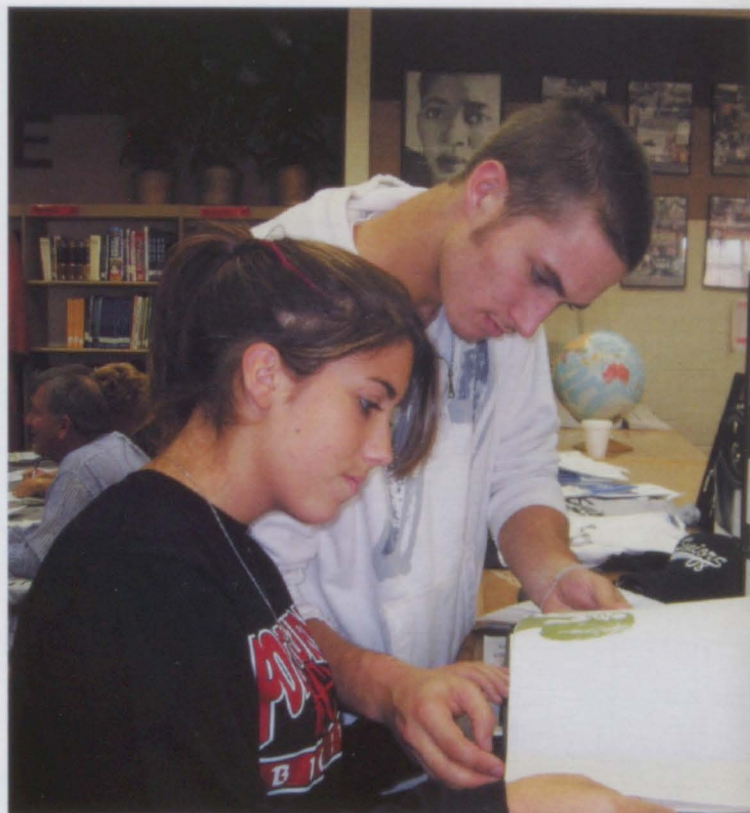

In June, the Media Center was once again restored to quiet, waiting for next year.

With total concentration, Shawn Herron (09) looks up information.

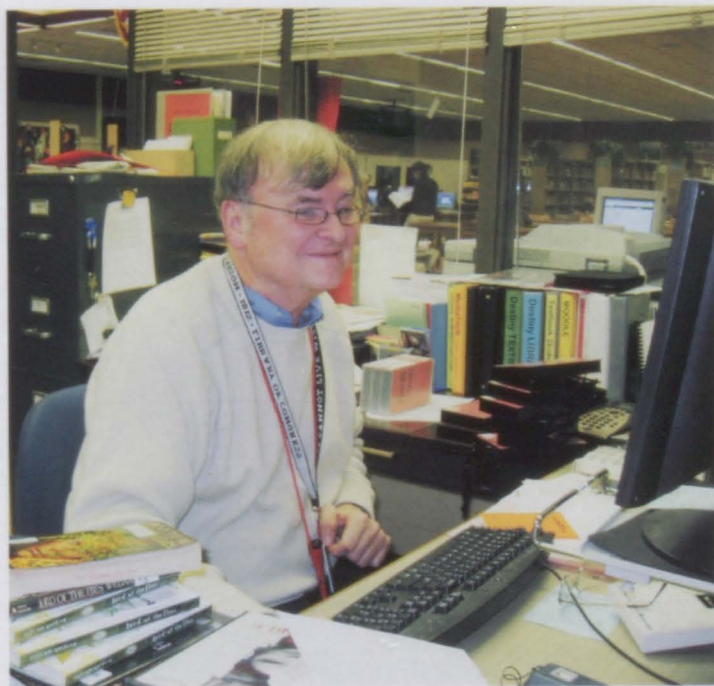

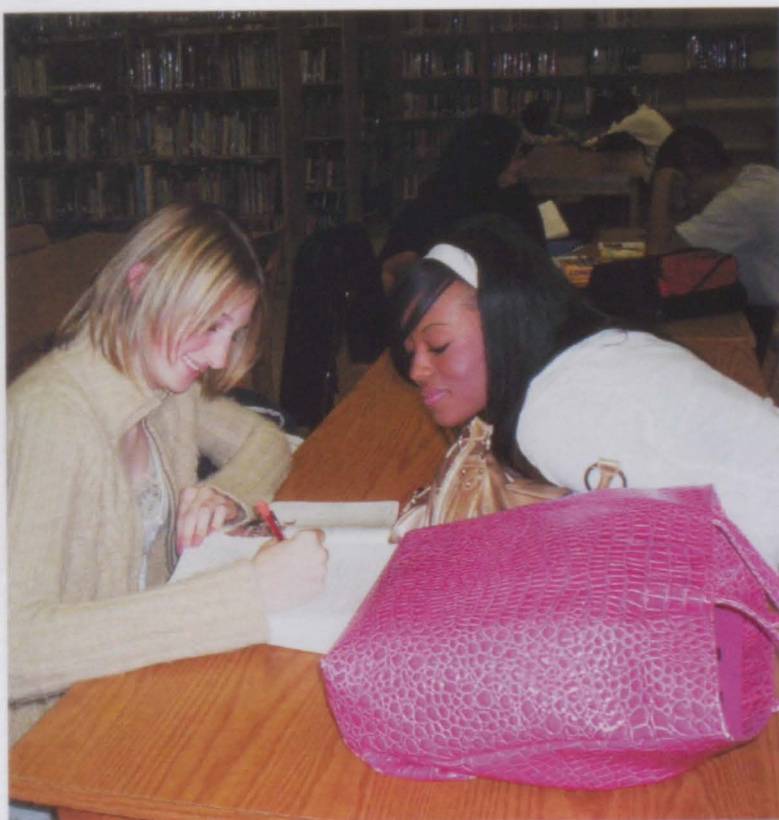

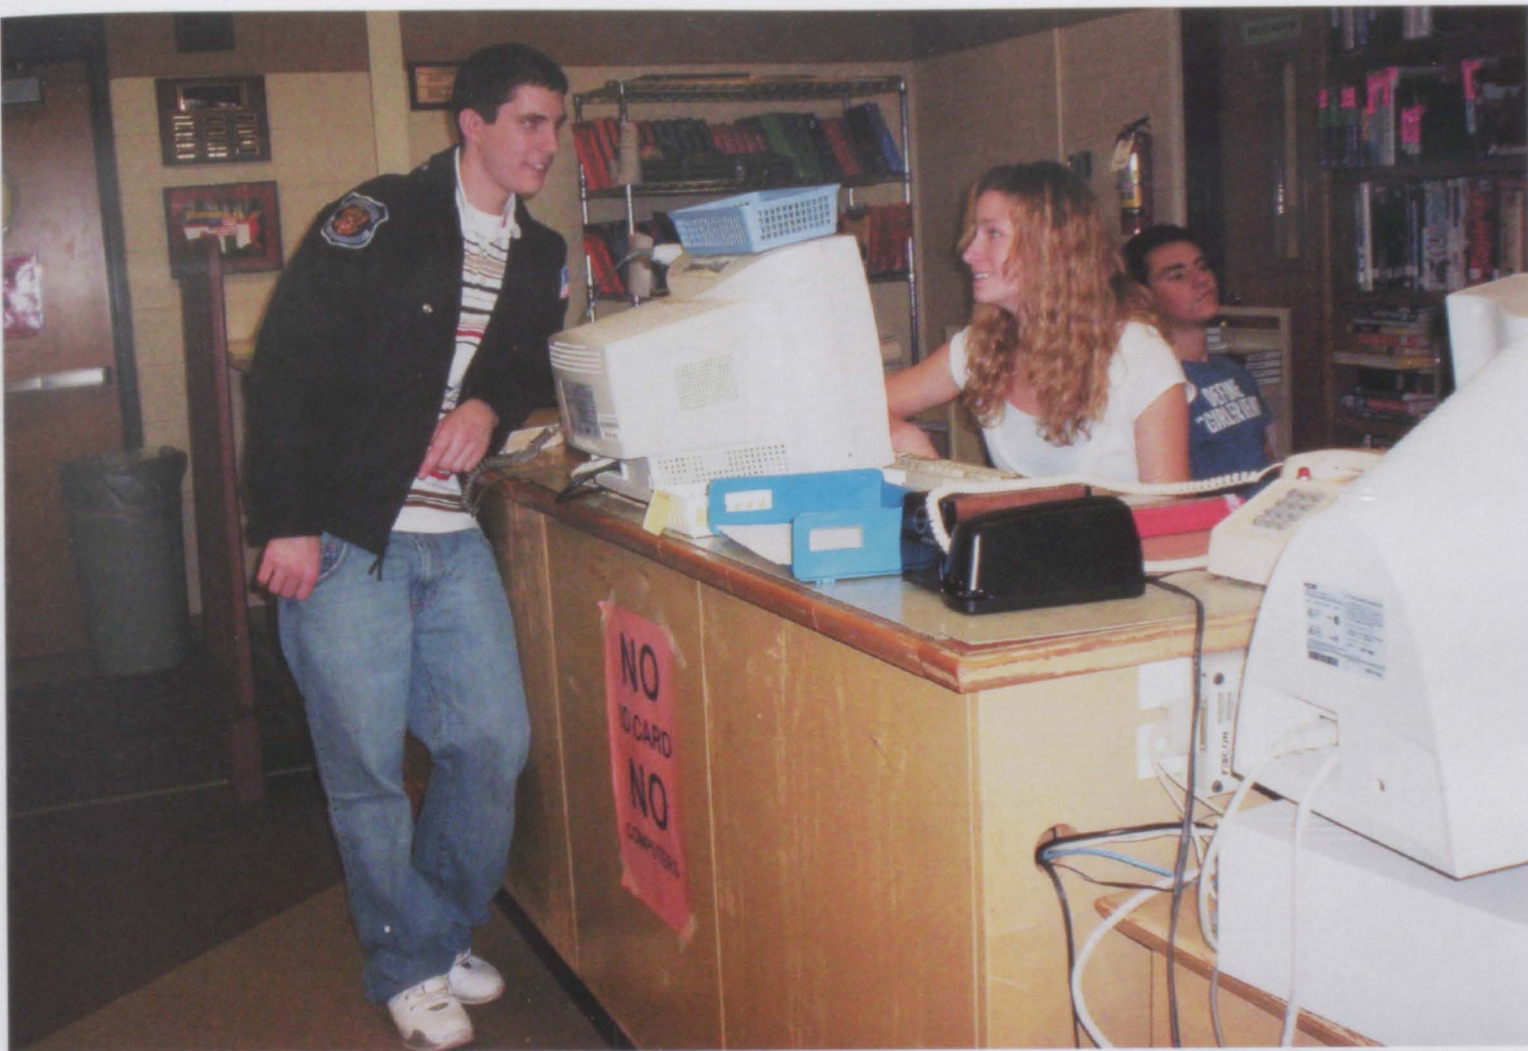

In his spare time, Eric Allen (08) catches up with Sarah Johnson (08).

For a class project, Corey Cates (09) and Amber Davis (09) do research.

Teaming up, Bradley Davies (08) and Sarah Bachman (08) hit the books.

To focus on school, Nancy Haller (09) and Cassandra Gilmour (09) study.

Getting started for the day, Mr. Jeff McCabe logs on the computer.

Lights, Camera, Action

And action there was, as PHHS saw the debut of the returning Performing Arts Class.

After the class was cancelled the previous year because of funding problems, the decision was made to restart the course.

Ms. Denise McCafrey took the honor of directing the talented thespians. "I enjoy drama, and this is what I did in high school. I enjoy giving students a chance to be creative."

The group started productions first semester, with The Odyssey.

On the day of the performance, students from various literature classes filled the Performing Arts Center to see the newly produced rendition. The show was reenacted three times throughout the day, giving more classes the chance to view the play.

It was a great cross curricular event since the freshman ELA students were studying The Odyssey.

This rendition sent Odysseus and his all female crew to the lands of the Lotus Eaters, the Cyclops, Circe, the Wind Goddess, and Calypso. The entire odyssey trip lasted for one class period. They sure made good time!

"Performing Arts is a great class. We get to learn outside the normal and we have a blast!" said Rachelle Kelly (09).

Second semester they performed a Shakespeare production.

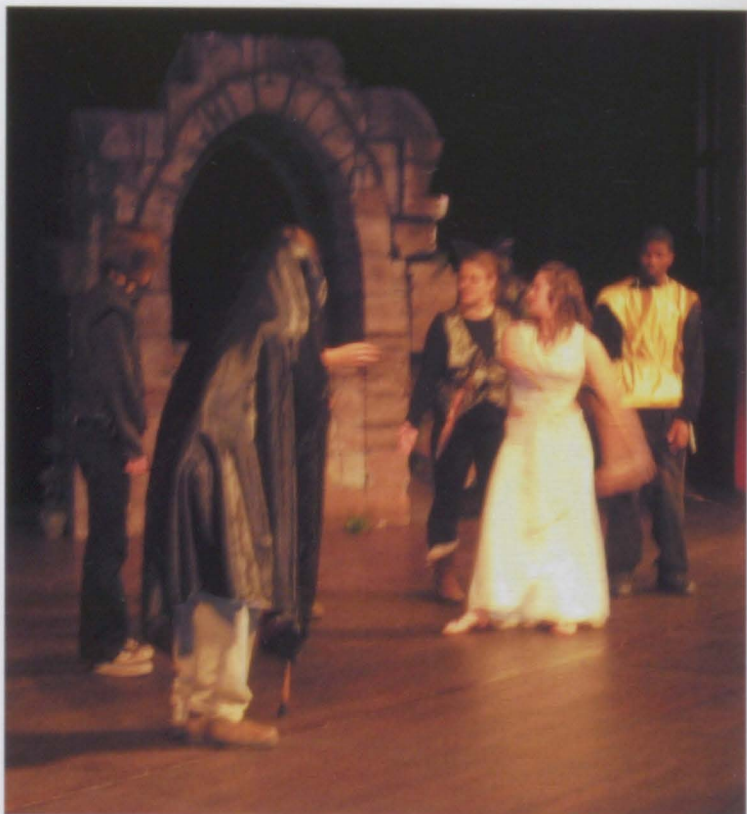

Odysseus, Dalton Carlisle (08), meets with Calypso, Madelyn Harris (10).

After the last scene, the cast gathered for a final curtain call on stage.

Aboard the ship, the crew conjures up a game plan to get them home.

To surprise his wife, Odysseus disguises himself as an elderly beggar.

Godess, Natalie Sullivan (10), tempts Odysseus with her beauty.

After meeting one of the Godesses, Odysseus refuses to take her food.

Foreign Language

Imagine learning a totally different language to one day able to speak it like it's your first. Well you can with foreign language class. Three popular courses Spanish, French and German have been offered at PH for many years.

The language teachers have favorite lesson plans to use with their classes. Mr. Timothy Owens who teaches Spanish said, "Fiesta Day, and Day of the Dead are some of my favorite lessons." Students brought entrees and desserts to share with their peers. He also said that he helps his students learn the culture using learning tools like flash cards, and Moodle a computer program, to help them remember.

Courtney Scharnakau (10) said, "I love my foreign language class. It's fun; it's also something different every day." One of her favorite activities was the French names because "it mixed things up."

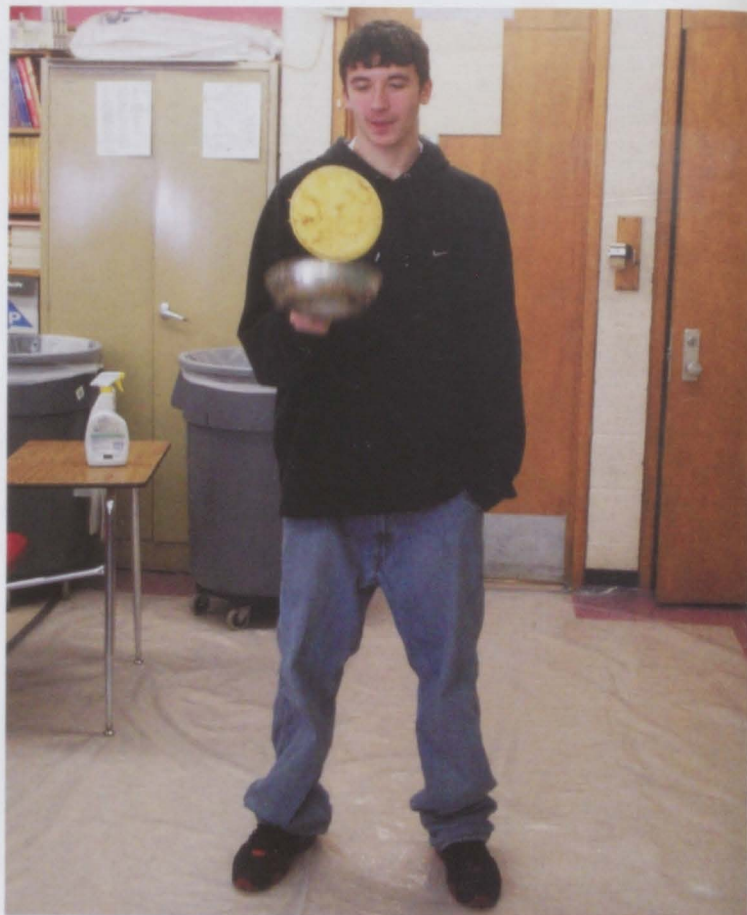

German classes were instructed by Mrs. Debbie Hesterberg.

Some of the lessons taught in the class were the house project, and boots that were made for St. Nikolaus Tag. During the holiday season, students took part in singing various German songs, such as O Tannenbaum.

"German is fun because it gives you a chance to experience a different culture," said Amanda Gerren (09).

In French class, Troy Smith (09) shows his talent as he flips his crepe.

For Spanish, Nicole Herr (08) and Jessica Koehn (09) teach Kindergarteners.

Joshua Goodrich (08) and Beth Holloway (09) listen to the discussion in French.

On Fiesta Day, Lindsay Miller (08) tries the homemade Fruit Salad.

While waiting her turn, Junior Danielle Watson samples some dip.

In French class, Courtney Scharnaku listens to her instructions for the day.

Stay Healthy: Body & Brains

Physical Education and Health show students how to take care of themselves.

In Physical Education students learn how to get fit. Joi Price (10) said, "the health benefit I get from this class is staying active every day so my body can stay in shape."

Students enjoyed this class because they had fun playing sports like basketball, baseball, football, softball and soccer.

Spencer Scahill (11) said, "My favorite sport to play in class is football because everyone is active and having fun."

When it comes to Health, students learned the importance of caring for their bodies. Brittany

Collins (11) said, "The most important thing I learned in Health was how to eat healthy and maintain a healthy diet."

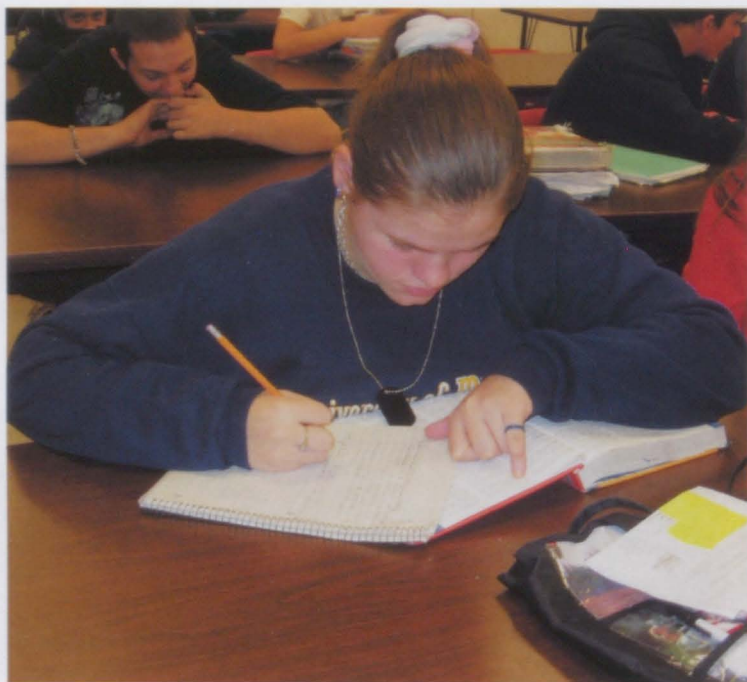

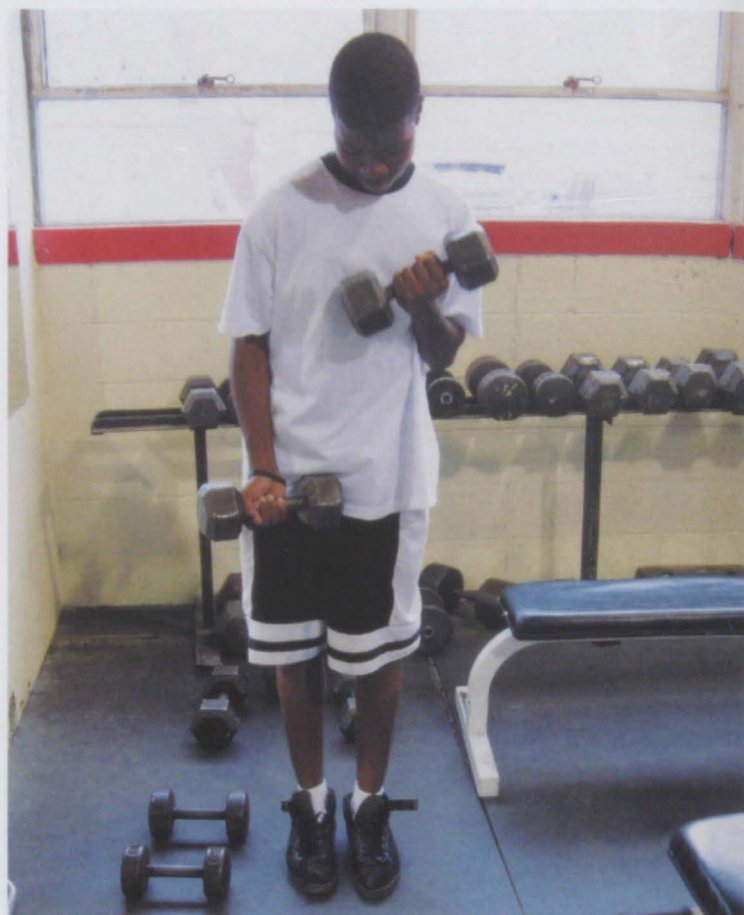

When it came to weight management, students didn't understand the importance of nutrition, so having Health taught them about food choices.

"Health's required because the information learned is to help benefit your future, and everyone can benefit from it," explained Brittany Banks (11).

Also, students learned about the harm caused by drugs and alcohol. Having Health was important because students learned information about life, health and the right way to live.

In Weights and Conditioning, Tyler Rogan (09) concentrates on his curl ups.

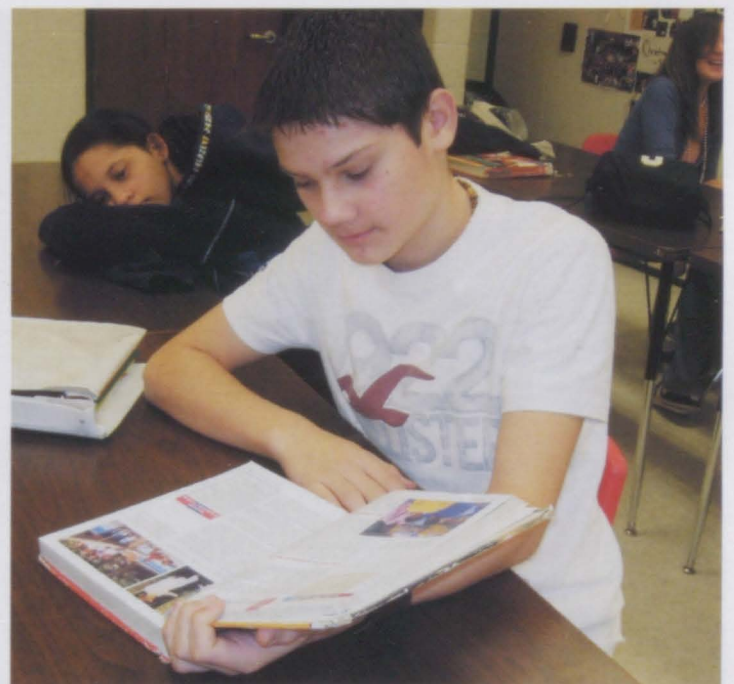

Anthony Kincade (10) works to lift 200lbs in Weights and Conditioning.

Loretta Leonard (10) works to complete her exam study guide for Health.

Jenna Bailey (11) practices for a basketball skill test during 6th hour gym.

Left: Tomi Kennedy (11) goes for a free throw, as the others wait.

Joshua Walerych (11) reads out of his Health textbook.

Speaking Out

Listen up! New voices added new perspectives as guests visited the school.

For example, Herff Jones representative Tony Noto made several visits to the yearbook class with information about the latest in technology and techniques

At the top of seniors' lists of guests were the college representative; the best attended sessions included MSU, U of M, Saginaw Valley, and SC4. The reps. came with news about their campus, cost and programs. At these meetings students could apply; sometimes the reservation fees were waived.

According to senior Jochlynn Young "I applied to Saginaw; it was great that I didn't have to pay the fee!"

The Military also sent recruiters to answer student questions and sign up seniors who had already made their decision to join.

Mr. Crittenden visited PHHS freshmen boys in the Performing Arts Center to talk to them about how he grew up, and the proper attire to wear to school.

Judge Cynthia Platzer talked to the freshman girls about respect, education, and the benefits and consequences of their choices/actions.

Guest Speakers were a great way for students to get the latest information and a different outlook on life.

Many of the guest speakers chose the luxury of hosting their lecture in the PAC.

"Mike Wendling educated us on what's legal or not," said Katelyn Walker (08).

Balfour came to PHHS to help seniors with their cap and gown measurements.

Andrew Hart (08) and Samuel Lusk (08) order their cap and gowns.

Making Music

Strings are strummed, throats are cleared, warm scales are engaged, and lines are rehearsed as this year's musical students began. Choir, Guitar, and Jazz Band, were ready to perform.

Choir classes offered Mixed Choir for all students. "This is my first year in choir, I really enjoy singing in choir because I love to sing. We laugh, have a good time and, I think that a lot of people should get involved with choir," said Chelsea Albrecht (10).

All students know that practice makes perfect. When asked how often he practices, Bradley Schott (11) said, "During Guitar Class all hour, and about 2 hours at home".

The Choir Concert enchanted the crowd at the PAC.

Guitar Class was another musical option. With two hours of the day dedicated to guitar, students got plenty of time to work in this unique class.

"...The class is something different, not the usual, boring class," said Lindsay Teichow (08).

Jazz Band was another choice within the music field. Students practiced their gleaming instruments and kept in tune with the rest of the group.

All of these classes prepared students for a rewarding hobby. Ashley Allen (11) said, "Yes, I love singing. It lets me express myself".

Students get their instruments prepared for their next session of band class.

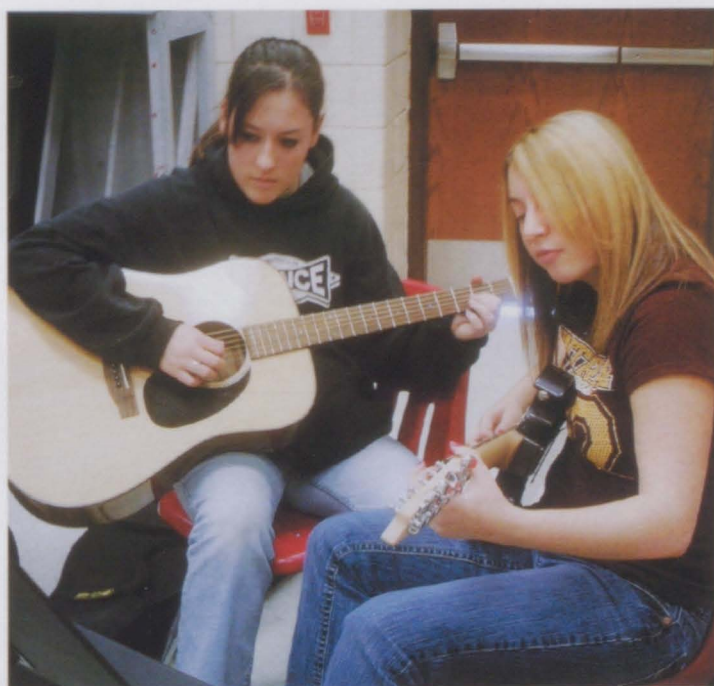

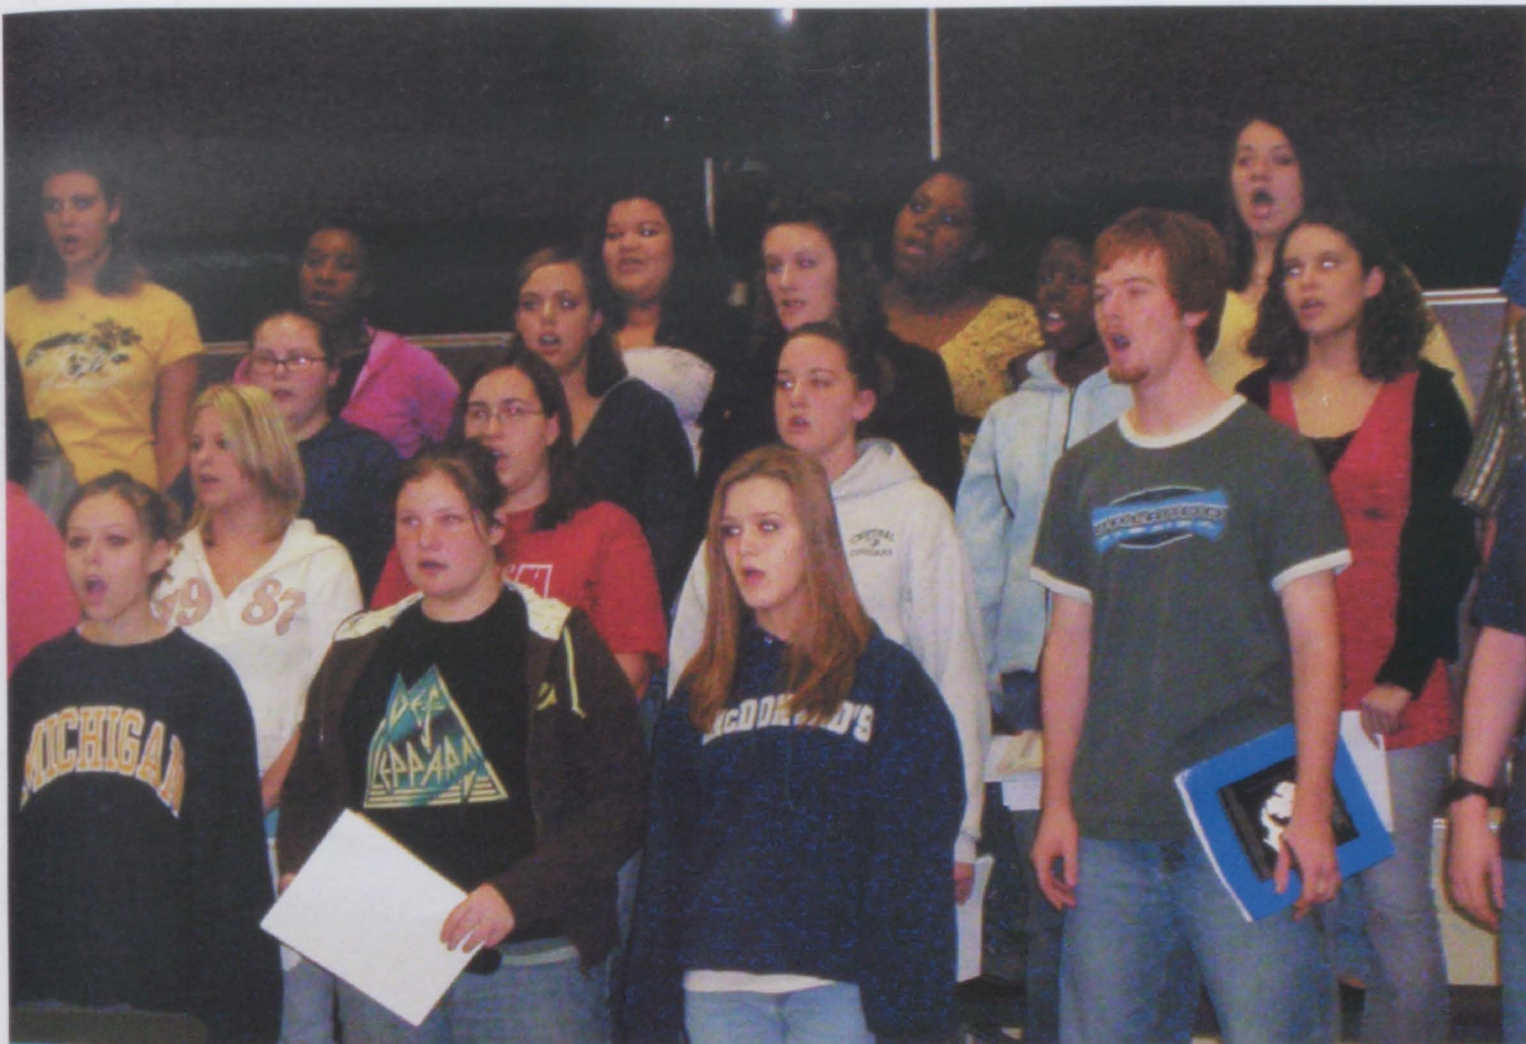

Hitting the high notes, choir students belt out their joyful tunes.

Caleb Malooley (08) and Zachary Carroll (09) strum their guitars during class.

During guitar class, seniors Steven Lash and Steven Ledsworth rehearse.

Rebecca Jackson (09) plays solo at a Varsity girls Basketball game.

Lindsay Teichow (08) and Caitlin Mrozek (09) play their guitars.

Off to Work They Went

Throughout the year, students did more than the usual math, science, and social studies activities. Some had Co-operative educational experiences.

There were thirty entrepreneurs inside these Port Huron High walls. Most students used co-op to get experience for their adult careers. Tiffany Jacobs (08), who was a secretary in the Athletics Department stated, "Co-op is hard work, but it gives me experience and background into the business world."

Co-op students were all over the school—in the office, school store, and library. But Co-op also allowed work outside of the typical school environment. They worked as nurses, cashiers, and secretaries. These students were all getting their working skills sharpened. Megan Lockwood (08), who nursed at Marwood after school said, "I feed, shower, and put residents to sleep; I basically take care of all these residents. It gives me the necessary skills to become an excellent nurse, which I hope to become one day."

Co-op also gave the students more hours to work. They made money to pay for all their high school necessities like Homecoming tickets, class dues, and yearbooks.

Co-op was a great opportunity to experience a real work environment.

With concentration, Kariss Nichols (08) flips through some papers.

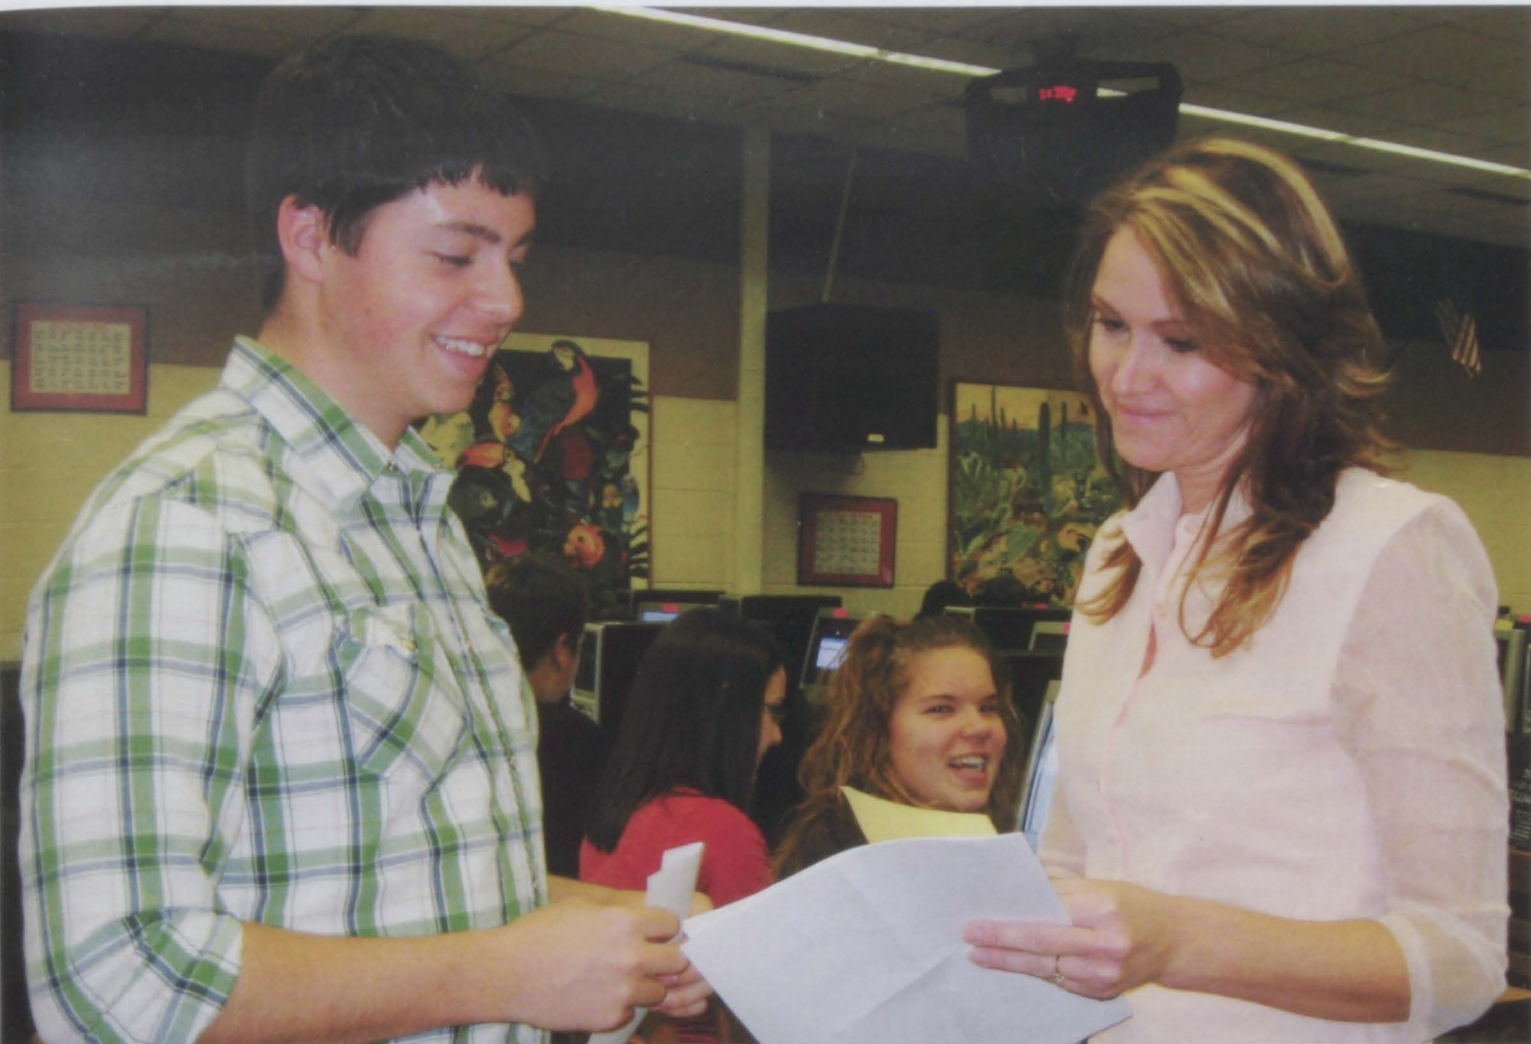

Locating finding Mrs. Myer in the library, Brendan Kirney (09) delivers passes.

Working in the office, Kariss Nichols (08) handles the day's attendance.

Karissa Keller (08) gets ready to hand off the pass to Kassandra Russell (08).

On the go, Cassandra Russell (08) checks room numbers on passes. Senior Sonia Harris delivers passes to students in all classrooms.

Let's Play the Match Game

Let's play the Match Game! Just like the television show's board that spins each new answer and audibly clicks when they match, students could line up their personal interests with the school's club offerings.

Looking for groups that challenge the mind? From your list, circle NHS, Mock Trial, Lighthouse, Quiz Bowl, or maybe the Page Turners

"I joined the NHS because it promotes good grades. It keeps students on the right path and out of trouble," Scott Werner (08) explained.

Hoping for a club to join or an activity to take up some of your free time in a productive way? Fill in the bubble on Thunderbirds, Bowling Club, Flash Club, or Tech Club.

"Thunderbirds takes a lot of time and commitment, but it all pays off when we win the awards," Breigh Edmondson (08) claimed.

Feeling musically inclined? Put a ring around BRMM, guitar class, choir or Drama for the annual musical.

"Being part of the BRMM, there's never a dull moment. Everyone is so energetic; it's amazing, like being part of a huge family!" commented James Krause (10).

Whether you join for the game or the glory, students can match their interests to a club or organization of their choice. The friendships are irreplaceable, and the memories are forever.

The BRMM member, Henry Chen (10), performs a piece for the students at Woodrow Wilson.

Shelby Chisholm (10) practices for her Mock trial competition in Ms. Michelle Jex's room after school.

Seniors Mitchell McCleary and Timothy Knisley donate to a blood drive.

Kayla Edwards shows her fellow Lighthouse members the project she has just completed.

Leading the band, the Thunderbirds perform in front of the crowd for the annual parade downtown.

Creating Color

For the first time in school history, the yearbook was published in all color.

"I think that it was a really cool idea, but it increased the fundraising workload," said Amanda Gerren (09).

The Yearbook Staff saw a change in the editorial committee, as they saw the introduction of the idea of three editor-in-chiefs. Chosen for the positions were: Juniors Kristi Radatz and Jessica Koehn, and Sophomore Travis McBride.

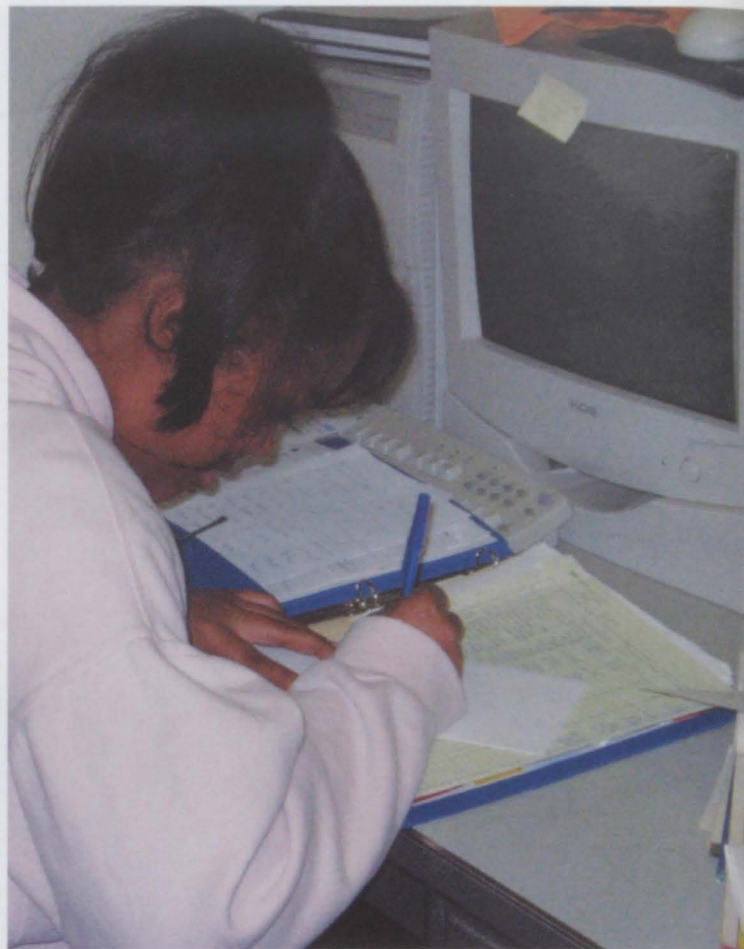

Over the summer, the editor-in-chiefs traveled to MSU for an exciting week of yearbook camp, where they learned the new techniques for the year. "The 2 a.m. fruit snack fight will leave a lasting impression," said Kristi Radatz (09).

After the completion of the "Big Red Spin on Life" edition of The Student, the staff began their quest in search of the theme for the next book.

There was also cause for much celebration, as the the past book earned top ratings in the competitions it took part in. It ranked first in the American Scholastic Press Association, and received a silver medal from the Michigan Interscholastic Press Association.

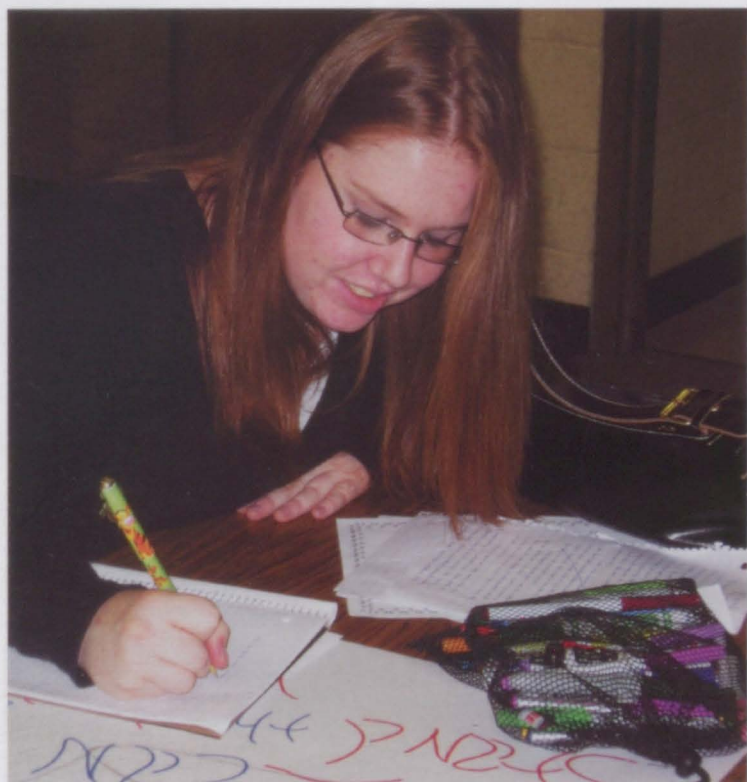

Ads manager, Jazmyn Thomas (10), writes a receipt out to a customer.

At camp Jessica Koehn, Kristi Radatz won the Hardest Workers in Desktop.

Murder Will Out

Murder and mayhem were brought to the classroom during the Mock Trial murder case; the State of Michigan vs. Morgan Phillips.

The PHHS Mock Trial students are two-time champions.

Many of the students who joined the group were interested in law. For Tiara Forsyth (08) "It sounded like an interesting thing, since I've started I've been hooked!"

Everyone who joined Mock Trial participated, usually as a witness or an attorney.

Ms. Michelle Jex, and attorneys Mr. Ron Kaski, and Mr. Frank Partipilo gave their time on Tues. and Thurs. after school, to help the students prepare for the competitions.

Mr. Frank Partipilo said "Watching the individual students turn into a team, and input what they learned," was what he looked forward to at a competition.

"Attorneys Mr. Frank Partipilo, and Mr. Ron Kaski are amazing sources of knowledge of the criminal justice system," said Rebecca Fugate (09).

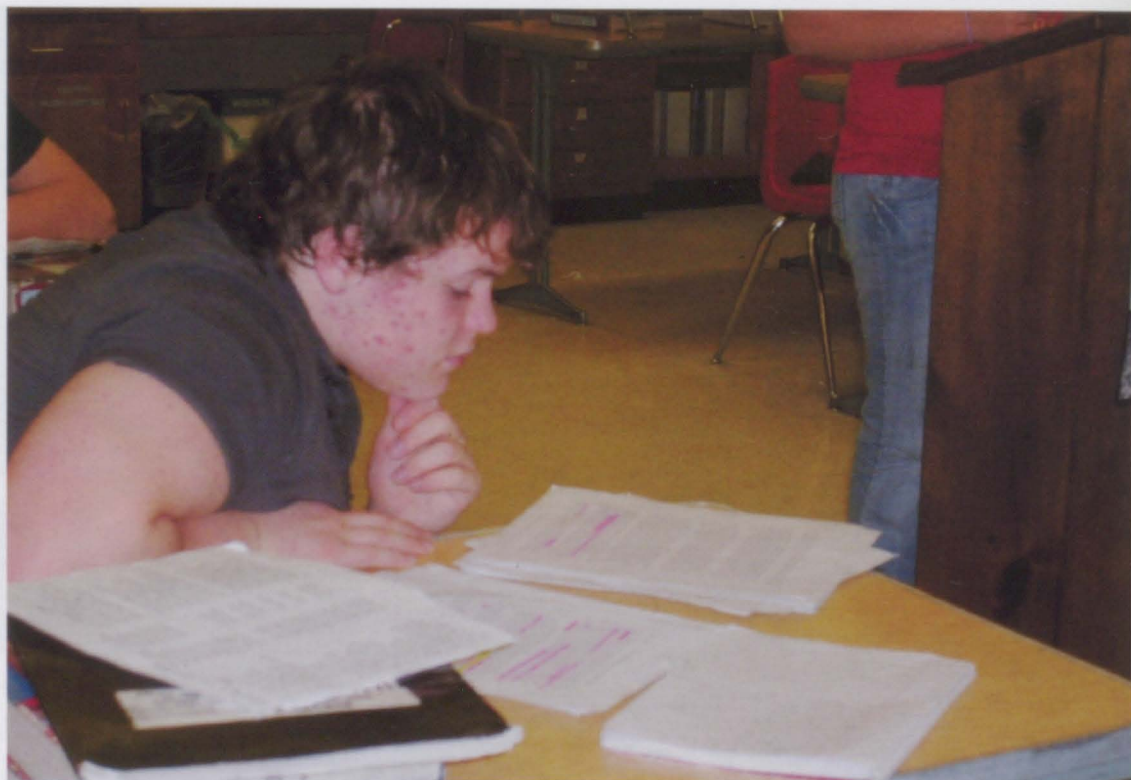

The case played on the two rival colleges in Michigan. Verbal threats, shots, and debts, added to the scenario. Murder will out, they say.

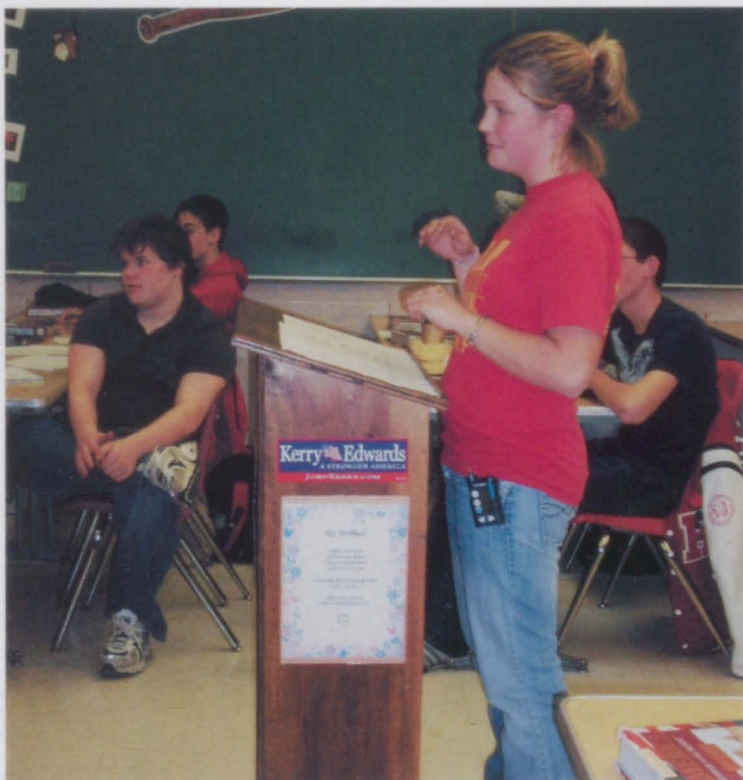

During practice, Devin Cleveland-Stein (09) defends his side of the case.

Members observe and absorb information during a cross examination.

Colby Alexis (10) looks over the case in preparation for the county competition.

Shelby Chisholm (10), receives constructive criticism from other members.

At a Tuesday night practice Ms. Michelle Jex acts as the judge.

Mystery and Charity Mix

Mysteriously the year began with a huge surprise; only 1000 students were allowed to attend Homecoming Dance.

Student Council's job was a whole lot easier; tickets went faster, and the dance ran smoother, according to the Dance Committee.

Twice every year for the past ten, the Red Cross and Student Council have teamed up for the bi-annual blood drive.

"I give blood to save lives. If I can help someone, I do. My experience on giving blood makes me feel good; this was my sixth time," said Shirley Thomas (08).

There were 52 first-time donors; 56 units were collected, "which gave 168 hospital patients a chance to again enjoy good health," according to Red Cross statics.

Student Council also rallied students in November to bring in 486 lbs. of food for the under-privileged at the holidays.

After the holidays, the council organized and motivated their peers and staff members to join in the fun of Jail 'n' Bail, a charity benefitting the March of Dimes.

"Student Council takes a lot of energy and time but it's a great experience," Bailey Klein (09).

Student Council President Bailey Klein (09), and Vice president Tiara Forsyth (08).

"Student Council is fun; it is very time consuming but FUN," said Mr. Keith Hørgē.

Walking with Honor

With electric candles glowing in their hands, NHS inductees walked the carpeted path to an honor-filled high school career. The present members sat in rows behind them, reflecting on their past walks across the stage.

Students looked forward to NHS. "I'm excited to be in (NHS) with people I know; it should be a great experience," related Elizabeth Santo (09). The members also anticipated extra points for college by participating in this club. "NHS promotes good leadership skills and colleges love to see that you are interacting with the community," said Hannah Kostanecki, (08).

Community service is a large, mandatory part of National Honors Society. Students must acquire at least ten hours of service. Also important are character, academic ability, and leadership, which are several of the list of areas that students are evaluated on.

Mr. Tim Owens and Mrs. Deb Hesterberg were the NHS advisers. The duty of running the organization belonged to Travis Washington (08), president, Tod Johnston (08), vice president, Melissa Bailey (08), secretary, Jeremy Barnum (08), treasurer, and Emily Miller (08), historian.

Making Music

Drum Major Michael Schoettle (09) gets the band ready for the tunnel.

As they stepped off the side line, the Big Red Marching Machine had the crowd screaming with excitement.

In a tribute to Styx, the BRMM played Lady, Lorelei, Renegade, Mr. Roboto, and Come Sail Away, at MSBOA. That earned them a AA Division 1, which is the highest score awarded.

The BRMM not only participated in 6 football games, they also did pep bands, a spaghetti dinner, MSBOA, and parades.

The students of the BRMM put a lot of work into being a part of this "family", as some students call it. Having a family as big as the BRMM also meant having to experience even the most embarrassing moments.

Michelle Netter (09) said, "The most exciting moment during marching season would have to be learning the dance for Come Sail Away, because it was funny to see the drum majors and the other students do it."

"I decided to join the BRMM because I had family in the band, and I thought it would be cool to have something that we all shared," said Krista Visga (10).

And so the marching season ended and the BRMM family waited for next year's season to start.

Members of the BRMM proudly play The Fight Song as they march the parade.

Finishing Lady, the BRMM kicks off and starts playing the famous Lorelei.

Going through the trouble of band camp, the BRMM finally hits the "x" set.

Dancing Into the Night

Finding their strength and endurance, the Thunderbirds soared.

The Thunderbirds had an energetic year. After tryouts in April, the three "old birds" coming back from the previous year, were joined by five new dancers, taking the team to eight girls.

After missing the first competition in Hazel Park, the girls were excited for their first home competition of the season.

The dancers were led by Ms. Kariann Radatz. Captain was Kristi Radatz (09), Assistant Captain was Breigh Edmondson (08), and Secretary was Marcela Bodeis (10).

"I tried out for Assistant Captain because I thought that I would make a good leader," said Breigh Edmondson (08).

"The rush of my first time getting rated as captain, I was really nervous! But once I got out there, the music was so intense, I got back into the rhythm of the team," recalled Kristi Radatz (09).

The girls had two routines: Pom, and Jazz. Pom was to Everytime We Touch by Cascada. And their jazz routine was to Into the Night by Santana and Chad Kroeger.

"I loved the uniform for Pom. It was so sparkley and cute. The judges really liked them too!" exclaimed Marcella Bodeis (10).

Captain Kristi Radatz (09) leads the squad down the parade route.

The colorguard performed at all home games for the Varsity Football team.

Act it Out

Shelby Fleming (10), and Melissa Weicht (10) run through their lines.

To Start off the year, the Drama Club participated in the Michigan International Thespian Society Competition. On top of getting the highest ranked score, the actors stayed the weekend away in a hotel.

Why did Drama Club members join? Some people said they had no choice. Amanda Dubay (09) said "Honestly, I was dragged into Drama, but I stayed after the first meeting because it sparked something. Now I couldn't imagine not being in it."

The Drama Club worked on the Bramble, a ghost ship used as a fundraiser for the Port Huron Museum. Julie Oliver (09) and Kimberly Martiny (09) kept the candles going to help out. Brianna Duren (10) says "Working on the Bramble was fun. It helped the school and it gave us a chance to hang out with our friends and provide for the community."

Drama Club has been active since 1985, and Micky Lepla is the advisor.

According to the members, the most enjoyable thing about Drama Club this year was being with friends and feeling like a family. "We cry, we fight, and laugh together. It's like a mini city or machine. We all work together to do a show," said Breana Valdez (09).

Amanda Dubay (09) Cheyenne Bolt (10) and John Kriewall (10) lead.

Everyone gets their laughter out before running through their lines.

While warming up, members have fun around the stage.

Melissa Weicht (10), Kavik Bressette (08), and Lina Lu (11) rehearse.

Radical Reading

Pages flip and trivia facts whirl about the rooms as Quiz Bowl and Page Turners begin. These two extra-curricular activities keep the brain fresh.

Quiz Bowl club members stretch their minds. The coach, Mr. William Doyle, asked questions about random facts and students buzzed in if they knew the answer. Whether they researched on the internet or read, students kept focused on the main goal—knowledge.

Quiz Bowl is not all work, though. Benjamin Jones (09) said, "Quiz Bowl is more for entertainment." Laughter sounded around the room when mistakes were made.

once a month to discuss books and argue over content. Students voted on novels and once chosen, the members parted to read. A month later, they rejoined to discuss. The goal of every member was to learn and have fun doing it.

"For the first year the book club has been extremely successful and we hope the number of people continues to grow," said Advisor Mrs. Erin Eastman.

These two organizations were fun and helped every involved student become more enlightened.

Thomas Fielitz (08) leads his team in a practice round for Quiz Bowl.

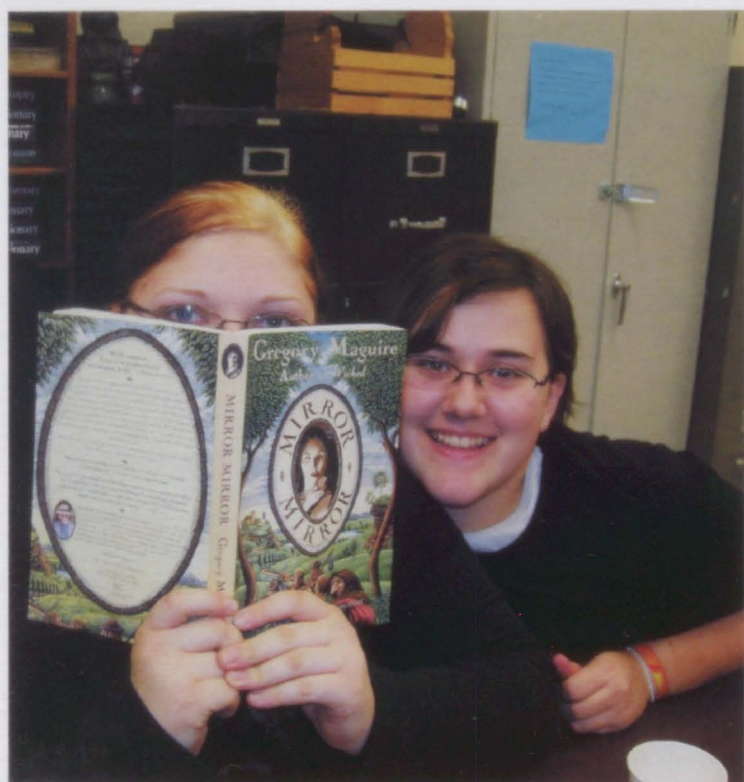

One novel chosen by the Page Turners was Mirror, Mirror by Gregory Maguire.

The Page Turners:

Brian Blake, Colby Alexis, Jenna Dahlke, Janelle Mitchell, Jennifer L. Kilbourn, Zachery Prax, Chrissla Boyea, Kirsten Blake, Shelby Chisholm, Mia Rodriguez, Haily Stager, Garth Gurnsey, Jennifer Noble, Advisor Mrs. Erin Eastman, and Advisor Denise McCaffrey.

Jenna Dahlke (10) and Jennifer L. Kilbourn (10) take a break from their novel.

During practice, freshman Travis Hill keeps score for a match.

Roll it Down the Lane

For a way to connect with both fun and friends, Big Reds found enthusiasm for the lanes!

After seven years, Mr. Juan Hernandez continued to enjoy his time with the Bowling Club. "I sponsored the Bowling Club for the fun, enjoyment, and exercise. I get to know the students better."

The group met weekly for typical bowling matches. The goal was to enjoy the time without the stress of the competition that league or team bowling would create.

On various occasions, members would take part in specialty matches like midnight bowling, partner bowling, or rocking bowling.

Students gather at Blue Water Bowl weekly to have a fun time bowling.

"The most exciting is the rocking bowling because there is music," said Kimberly Martiny (09).

"It's a great program, and it allows students like me to be a part of something," said Julie Oliver (09).

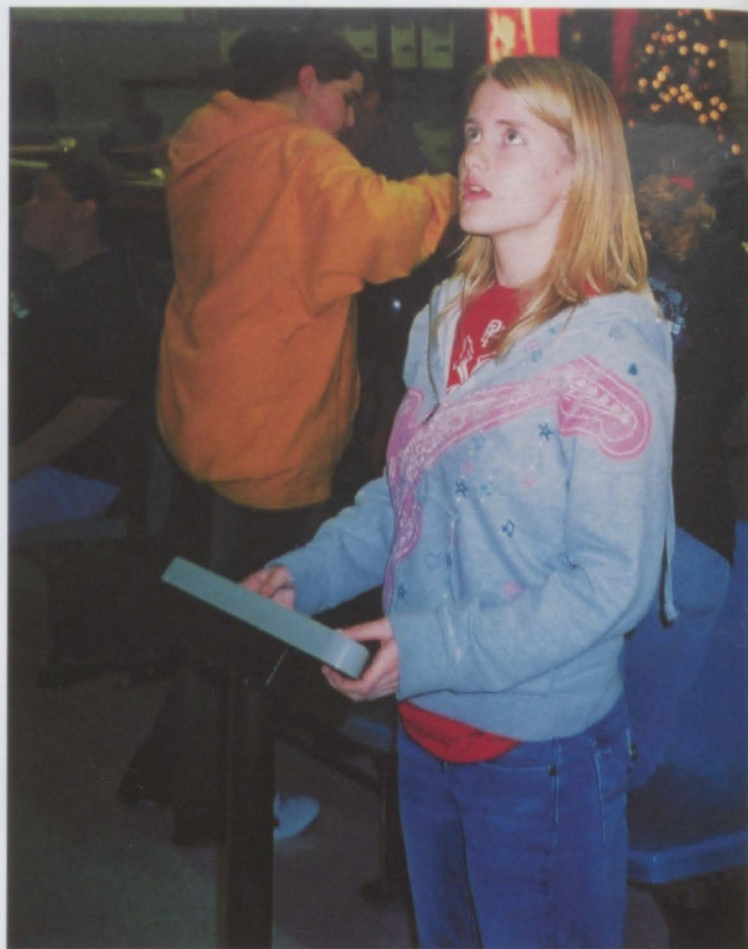

Members gathered on Thursdays at Blue Water Bowl to enjoy two games of bowling.

Kayla Toles (08) said, "I joined this club because it would be something fun to do for myself, and it would keep me out of trouble."

The club ended their season with a party.

Julie Oliver (09) puts names on the board so they can start bowling.

Jenna Dahlke (10), Amanda Bloink (10), Jessica Arnold (09), wait their turn.

As the ball rolls down the lane, Joshua Matthews (10) watches it hit the pins.

Michael James (09) retrieves his bowling ball from the ball return.

Hot Off the Press

Extra! Extra! Read all about it! The Lighthouse was back and hot off the press. With a brand new room and a whole new staff, fresh issues of The Lighthouse appeared faster than ever!

For just twenty-five cents, students and staff members bought their very own copies of The Lighthouse. The newspaper was sold in room 136 during third hour.

The newspaper staff was made up of students who dedicated their third hours every day to write articles and take photographs. Not only did the class offer a great way to publish student writing, but it also taught them interviewing, reporting, and meeting deadlines.

"Interviewing is what I like, because you ask people questions about themselves, and I like to learn about people," said Katelyn Falk (08).

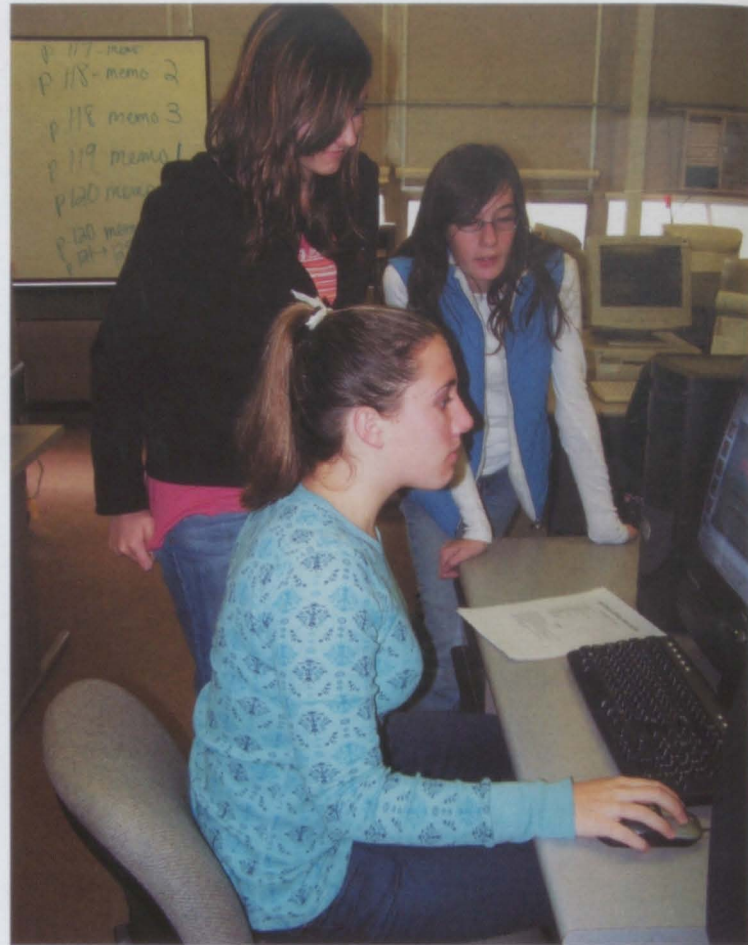

Each week students worked to complete one article for the paper.

"I love being a part of The Lighthouse newspaper because it's more independent work; I get to talk to people and ask questions," said Constance Radatz (09).

The returning advisor to the group was Ms. Trish Kinnee, who rejoined the PHHS ELA staff after a layoff.

Hastily working, Heather Hillman (09) gets some tips on her article.

Fellow Lighthouse members help Heather Hillman (09) proof read her article.

Sports Division

What a year! For a Big Red spin on events, the fans stood out this year as more than mere spectators. With one strong voice they cheered their teams to victory, displaying their pride with their red t-shirts.

Also, in a twister-style storm, the Big Reds, blew like a tornado through their opponents.

The Varsity Football Team defeated Northern and brought home the Brick Fowler Trophy. With a flurry of fanfare, the Big Reds continued with victory after victory leading in the Mac Blue Division.

"It's my last year playing on the Big Red team so I'm glad we did as good as we did," said Emanuel Lopez-Alvarez (08).

For the Big Red Varsity Soccer Team, the boys kicked their way to the top for the second year in a row. The boys won the Mac Gold.

Not to be outdone, the Red Dawgs swam to take second in the Mac Gold and won in Divisions.

For the first time in history the sport seasons for boy's tennis and golf, and girl's tennis, golf, basketball, and volleyball, were switched. Concerned parents said it was unfair to some girls and took the case to court.

"I don't like the change. I think it makes the gym too busy, and it also makes it harder on the college scouts. However it is a change we have to overcome, and we're going to make it work better than ever," said Mr. Ken Semelsberger, athletic director.

With an effort to make a goal, Michael Foucha (09) shakes off his opponents with success.

Chasing after the pitch, Zachary Ostrander (07) spins into action to hit the ball.

Taking on her opponent Tiffany Weiss (10) blocks for the point.

Racing for the lead, Katie O'Neill (10) makes her way to the top.

The Varsity Football team victoriously took their opponents one game at a time.

Off the Tee, in the Air

The season for the Girls Golf Team started off slow due to many rained out matches and cancellations.

When the opening game kicked off, the girls got their first look at a pro-scored game: when the game cannot be finished the teams average out the players' strokes. They lost the match 239 to 208.

With two new players joining the group, the girls made a team of 7 players, and ended the season with 2 wins and 5 losses.

The new players were Megan Torello

(10) and Tiara Forsyth (08).

The Blue Water Sports Dome did not participate in golf this year, so the girls were forced to search for a new place to start the season. The team could be found at Port Huron South with Birdy Balls until it got warm enough to play outside at Golf Country or Fore Lakes.

The girls had back to back seasons, due to the change in girls sports.

On the tee box, Megan Torello (10) makes her first shot.

Backhands to Forehands

The nets were up, the courts cleaned and boys tennis was in full swing.

The season had a rough start due to the weather. Snow storms and rain showers forced the boys to practice indoors at the Port Huron Tennis House.

However, once it warmed up and the courts dried off, the boys were ready to dominate on the outside courts. The Varsity team was first in the MAC White, second in Regionals and 14th at States. For a year of 10 wins, no losses and 1 tie.

The J V team had many newcomers and with a new coach, Mrs. Colet Collins the team had a decent season of 5 wins, 6 losses and 1 tie.

With the change from spring to fall, the boys had a chance to improve over the summer and head right back into another season.

The Varsity team finished the season with 5 wins, 6 losses, 1 tie. The JV team finished with a record of 6 wins, 4 losses and 1 tie.

Returning the ball, Matthew Gossman (08) warms up before a match.

Strive for Success

"We can do this. Come on boys, all the way through!" These were some of the encouraging words that the boys heard during practice and meets from the long distance coach, Mr. William Prout.

Placing tenth at Regionals and fifth at MAC Red Meet, the boys pulled through the season with the effort that their coaches look for.

Some individuals stood out. For the past two years, Trevor Baker (09) has been advancing his skills for the Pole Vaulting event. During the 2007 Regionals, he qualified for third place with a jump of 13 feet 6 inches.

"I always tried my personal best, and if it helped out the team, then it made it all worth it," said Andrew Ellery (08).

The team could be seen during practice working on speed and endurance. The sprinters participated in repetitions of the 200 and 100 meter while the distance team could be spotted running through the city.

During the Utica dual meet, Trevor Baker (09) jumps his final jump and takes first.

The boys work on line drills which help them warm up and stretch.

Nicholas Wiczko (07) attempts to throw the shot put fifty-three feet.

The Circle of Champions

Having lost only one meet the prior year, the Varsity girls had tough competition to come back to. Coach Mr. Eddie Kindle trained the girls rain or shine, "This is what real athletes are, no other team practices in rain or sleet."

"Cheering for each other and supporting our teammates is what our team is all about. We know coach wants us to be a team and have fun, but yet do our best," said Elizabeth Hartman (08).

Making it to Regionals and placing second overall, team spirit and practice seemed to really pay off. After being runners up at Regionals, the Lady Big Reds made it to States as a team.

The girls won the MAC Red meet, beating Stevenson for the first time since 2004.

"Great excellence and reputation is what we pride ourselves on, and team spirit is what pulls us together during meets and at practice when we need each other the most," said Ashley Ahles (08).

Game face on, Caitlyn Bonney (08) prepares and focuses on her 400 meter run.

Lady Big Reds, Ashley Ahles (08), Samantha Richards (08), and Tiana Nelson (10) race the 400 meter relay.

State Champ in Shotput, Norianna Brown (07), filled with determination, places first.

Bases Loaded

The boys season started out a little slow, but as it continued the teams improved.

The Varsity Team had a close call at the Northern game; it was a real nail-biter that took the teams into two extra innings. The Big Reds and their fans were thrilled with a 6-5 victory.

In another tough matchup, the guys also beat the number one ranked team in the district--the Lake Shore Shoreans, which was a big win for PH that boosted their confidence for the rest of the season. Gerald Castillo (07) stated, "Coach hits during practice and it makes us want to out do him."

The Varsity Team also made it to the District Championships this year, which was a huge accomplishment for them.

The Junior Varsity team came out with quite a impressive season with a grand total of 8 wins only 1 loss and 1 tie.

During practice they would scrimmage the varstiy and freshman teams also work on fielding, batting and pitching.

Ronald Holzberger (07) winds up for the pitch to the Northern batter.

Hit And Run

The best game of the season for the Freshman team came against Anchor Bay when they mercied them by a score of 16-1 in just 3 innings. Amanda Parker (10) said, "We couldn't have done it without D!"

The Junior Varsity team started the season out strong, and enjoyed the most successes of the three teams.

"I love playing softball and I've been playing my whole life. I also like being around people that enjoy playing as much as I do," said Kimberly Miller (09).

Although withstanding a rough beginning to the season, the Varsity team overcame obstacles, and with lots of team work and effort, eventually their record improved. "The best part of the season has been seeing the players come together as a team to do our best," said Christina Smith (07).

Practices consisted of working on plays, conditioning, drills, game situations, batting, and catching.

Kirsten Jex (09) gets her team motivated by getting a single late in the game.

Make The Goal, Make It Count

Running up the field, Danielle McFadden (09) took the shot and scored the game winning goal against Sterling Heights; her first of the season.

Besides starting the season with a win, the girls were excited to get to know their teammates. "This team is like a family. We're together every day during the week and most of the time at least one day on the weekend," said Rebecca Jackson (09).

"The most important piece of the team is the confidence from everyone and to have support and leadership," said Courtney Jonseck (08).

Coaches gave the girls encouragement. According to Emily Day (09) the best advice of the season was given by Coach Dave Jock, "If you don't shoot, you don't score, you don't win."

In an unusual situation, the girls found their record reflected the intensity of their competitions with 5 ties.

Down the Field and in the Net

Dribbling down the field, he shoots, he scores. What a season, for the Port Huron High School Varsity Boys Soccer Team!

They went a whole season without losing a game-- seventeen straight wins.

"The season was amazing, a great way to end my soccer career at PH," commented Tod Johnston (08); "we all played our best and really grew together as a team."

The team was led by senior captains Richard Jock, Evan Prout and Kevin Johnson.

One other highlight of the season was the Varsity team's double triumph over cross-town rival, the Huskies of Port Huron Northern. "I knew we had the game after we came out and scored in the first five minutes," said Ryan Kovach (09).

Top scorers for the season included Samuel Seppo (08), Christopher Tatti (09) and Frank Hudson (09).

The upset came for the boys during the first game in the playoffs against Anchor Bay, when they lost 0-1 with an accidental goal.

The Junior Varsity Team had many new players and finished the season with 3 wins, 2 losses and 1 tie.

Taking control of the ball, Evan Prout (08) defends the net.

Into the Blue

Splash! The still water broke as the girls dove into a new season.

With a new season came a new facility. The Red Dawgs moved from practicing at the YMCA to the Birchwood Athletic Club for better hours.

"I was glad we switched to the Birchwood Athletic Club. It was nice not having practice so late at night, plus we were able to have a more consistent schedule," stated Michelle Troy of PHN (08).

At practice the girls cross trained to prepare for meets. They started off practice by running to warm up their muscles. Next they divided into two groups. For an hour and a half, half of the girls swam

While in the water they worked on speed drills, swam suicides and distance swims, diving for a weighted brick, flip-turns and perfecting their stroke. The other girls worked with weights and machines. They also did cardio workouts such as Kickboxing, Zumba, and Yoga.

The Red Dawgs were not sponsored through the Port Huron Athletics Department, so to raise money, the team held a Swim-A-Thon, a Car Wash and a Halloween Stroll. The Swim-A-Thon found who could swim the most laps in an hour.

The Red Dawgs wait in anticipation to start the first meet of the season.

On and Off Course

What do you get when you put long distance running and the great outdoors with a group of 22 guys and two coaches? A 13 - 3 season for the boys' Cross Country Team!

Their great year meant plenty of practice and effort -- some of the courses were harder than others. "Willcott Mill in Romeo was the most difficult course because it seems long and you run through a stream up to your knees," said Joseph Pellegrino (09).

The boys had some tough teams to compete against. "St. Clair was the biggest competitor," said Robert Oliver (09). "They have a tremendous team this year and have been running great."

"I decided to run Cross Country because I ran it last year, and it was a lot of fun. The coaches are great," said Jeremy Ruiz (10).

The guys won the Sportsmanship Award. Also Luke Privette (08) and Joseph Pellegrino (09) went to States, with Luke placing 50th and Joseph placing 203rd out of 250 plus.

For motivation, Jonathan Dankenbring (10) had a sports hero "Lance Armstrong is my role model, because even though he has cancer, he can still win the Tour De France."

Tyler Mueller (11) tries to push past one of his competitors.

Ryan Davis (08) and William Bendik (09) run along side each other.

Going strong, Jeremy Fry (10), pushes towards the finish line.

Go The Distance

"Get out, Get out, Get out," can be heard from Coach Mr. George Moger, as the gun is fired and the girls start out on a grueling 3.5 miles.

The season started with a three day camp consisting of negative intervals, speed workouts, long quality distance runs, hills and their first race, the Lexington 5k.

"Camp was tough, but when we weren't working out we had so much fun. We went swimming, had a bon fire and bonded," stated Amber Duncan (08).

The girls had an impressive season, going undefeated in the league. They came in second at the MAC, and placed 4th at regionals. Chelsey Bonney (08) and Katrina Ober-ski (09) went to States, placing 172 and 92, respectively. For the third time, the girls won the Sportsmanship Team of the Year Award.

At practice, they participated in a variety of runs including fartlelc's, a "Vietnam" course, treasure hunts, and city runs. They worked on hill attacks, speed and consistency.

"We had a huge team and all the girls worked extremely hard. I'm very proud of them," said Coach Mr. George-Moger.

Hit the Trails

From a team of twelve down to a team of four with no ring crew, the Equestrian Team had to pick up the slack and jump over every hurdle thrown their way.

Heather Verfaillie (10) said "We never made any points and the classes were harder."

"The only thing I really sacrificed was a couple more days. Plus we only had three days of showing this year, so it wasn't too bad," said Cassandra Deanda (09).

Heather Verfaillie (10) was also a returning rider. She rode Western with her mare, Sahara and rode her gelding, Max for pleasure.

New to the team were freshman Meghan Rock, who rode Western and her gelding Rocky.

Even harder classes couldn't stop the Equestrian Team, because for them it wasn't about earning points, it was about the experience of riding and

Can You Dig It?

"Volleyball is a great way to get exercise and stay in shape," said freshman player Hope Telfer (11).

Jessica Swarts (11) said, "I played in seventh grade and this year, I play left front or outside hitter. Its my favorite positon to play."

The 2007 volleyball teams played tough seasons. Both teams found L'Anse Creuse North to be an easy target and brought home a pair of wins.

"My personal favorite game was the Northern game because we played together as a team and beat them, even though they were in a division higher than we were. I was excited for that game; that's why I played so well," said JV player Taylor Johnston (11).

Volleyball can be hard on athletes. "the conditioning, digging and setting can be very hard because players have to get the ball in the right positon to be hit over the net by a teammate," said Junior Varsity player Sydney Jones (11).

This year some sports seasons got switched around for the first time. Even with this change, the girl's volleyball teams still pushed to do the best they could in every game that they played.

Bump It Up

It had been thought that the season change would only bring out the college scouts, and help get the girls more scholarships. What the parents and residents of Michigan did not know was that it would bring their Volleyball teams more energy on the courts, by the team being ready to go.

"It made me excited coming right from summer into Volleyball, but it shortened the season because we did not have mid-winter break in between," said Lorna Johnson (08)

Instead of the upperclassmen making up the whole team, freshman Olivia Burkhardt was welcomed to the team. "I've improved all around and my teammates have really helped me a lot," said she.

With a 1-11 year, the Varsity Volleyball team had some trouble, but they have improved." Even though our record doesn't show it, I think I have improved because I've been a bigger asset to the team compared to last year," said Jessica Kindle (08).

The favorite game for the girls was Warren-Woods Tower, because they played really well, and because it was the first regular season game they won.

New and Improved

"This season has been by far my favorite season on the team," said Ashley Ahles (08).

There were changes to the coaching staff this year. Teacher Deb Palazollo became the Varsity and Head Coach, Ms. Miller led the freshmen this year, while veteran Big Red Cheerleader, Amanda Baker, returned to coach the Junior Varsity team.

Coaches weren't the only additions to the season but so were new stunts and uniforms from Varsity.Com.

The Varsity team took to wearing the Varsity Football players' jerseys on some special occasions, such as the first game against Eisenhower, and the playoff game against the Chippewa Valley Big Reds.

"I loved to wear the jerseys; it made us and the football players look like one big happy family, and it showed off our school spirit," said Kristin Baker (08).

Junior Varsity and Varsity teams were very successful in their stunting contests, starting the season with a win against the cheerleaders of Eisenhower. Varsity ended their season with only two losses to L'Anse Creuse North out of the nine games they attended.

Janelle Klaas (08) and Samantha Secory (08) are lifted into the "thigh master".

Perfect Spiral

Football seasons for both the Freshmen and JV teams matched.

The Junior Varsity team started off the season with a tough loss to Eisenhower. It didn't take them long to get it right, winning the third game they played; a 26-22 victory against Roseville.

Freshmen also started their season with a tough loss to Eisenhower, 36-16. That didn't bring them down. Like the JV team, the frosh went on to win their third game against Roseville, 26-22.

Why join? Stephen Powell (09) said, "I tried out for the team to lose weight and play the game."

Christopher Curtis's (11) reason was, "I tried out because I knew it would be fun, and I love football!"

Both JV and Freshmen had 3 wins.

Players gave some good advice. Steven Sawher (10) said, "Good teams become great ones when the members trust each other and surrender the "me" for the "we". That was the most important thing he learned during the season.

JV player Brian Johnson (10) summed up their philosophy:

"T- together
E- everyone
A- achieves
M- more."

Richard Mierendorff (10) blocks as Marc Titus (10) hussles for a touchdown.

MAC Champs

This football season was by far one of the best that the school has ever had. The team won their first game and continued their winning streak for the next three weeks.

The first loss was to Warren Mott, 21-28.

The team came back and beat Port Huron Northern receiving the Brick Fowler Trophy. Their winning streak continued with the game against L'Anse Creuse making the team MAC Blue Champions.

Then the Big Reds played Chippewa Valley for the second loss. With a record of (7-2), this would put the boys into the play-offs. The opposing team was once again the Chippewa Valley Big Reds. The PH team came up a little short with a score of 14-21.

"We really worked hard this season and knew what needed to be done, and we got it done," said senior Quarterback Jordan Brown.

The Football Team was in Division 1, schools with the largest populations and teams.

The play-off game against Chippewa Valley was a MHSAA event held at Memorial Stadium on October 26.

The team changed head coaches this year, advancing Mr. Ryan Mullins to the position.

Shoots the Win

A swish was the sound of the last two winning points against Marysville for JV guard Lindsay Henderson (09). "We won by only one point and it was really exciting," said Molly Rathje (10); "It was my favorite game...."

All the girls focused on teamwork. "Teamwork is actually the most important thing," said Shayna Kearney (11). All the girls worked with each other, helped each other, especially with the new girls. "This is the greatest new learning experience," said Chelsea Sherman (11).

The girls learned valuable lessons. For instance when the freshmen played Henry Ford II, it was their very first win, and it was sweat and tears all the way through. The most valuable thing they've learned was "To always work hard and to never give up no matter what the score says," said Lindsay Henderson (09).

"If you work together, and play hard you will do better, no matter if you win or lose," said Darchelle Mitchell (11).

The freshmen started the season strong with big wins against both Marysville and Northern. "Our defense and offense were great for both games; we were really focused," said Tarshawna Bell (11).

Through The Hoop

With new practice jerseys and shorts, the girls Varsity basketball team hit the court, all in the same gear.

Lay ups, rebounds, shots and freethrows were the skills needed for the Varsity girls to win. The Big Reds started their season slowly, but they never gave up.

"I always played defense no matter what the score was," said team captain Jessica Kindle (08). "I know if I try my hardest, that is what counts the most."

Working hard was very important to Coach Palardg, especially when the Varsity played his wife's team, Stevenson. The Big Reds lost, but they put forth a good effort.

When discussing basketball strategies senior Meghan Curtiss said, "Making the easy pass is something Coach Palardg drilled us on."

Melissa Delano (09) stated, "I look up to Rip Hamilton because he's number 32 and I am, too; he also is shooting guard and that's what I am. Plus I love the Detroit Pistons."

For the season the Big Reds went ___ for ___. Even though it was a difficult season, the Varsity girls showed great sportsmanship, teamwork, and Big Red Pride.

Driving Up The Lane

Squeaky shoes, swooshing net, and a loud cheering audience helped push the Freshmen and Junior Varsity boys basketball teams on to victory.

"I get pumped for a game by listening to music and thinking of the outcome of the game," said Tahj King (11).

"I like playing basketball because of the respect that we receive, and the respect put on by us players. I decided to play basketball this year because I wanted to improve my skills as a basketball player again this year," said sophomore Nathan Babcock.

The Junior Varsity team saw one major change in the course of their season. Mr. Ryan Mullins was introduced as the new coach for the team. Adding assistance to the new coaching staff, was Mr. Dave Tatti.

The team split bragging rights when it came to the Northern game. The Freshmen team won with a final score of 41 - 32. Unfortunately for the Junior Varsity team, a good effort was not enough to down the Huskies.

Practicing plays was not the only thing that the teams did. Each day, they practiced for about two hours conditioning and running skill drills.

Having Love for the Game

Great defense leads to great scoring opportunities; this was why Varsity Coach George Moger added an exciting defense to the Big Reds game plan.

"Our trapping defense 151 is my favorite because it picks up the pace of the games and the guys love it," said coach Mr. George Moger.

After falling in close games, the plan paid off, just in time for their Fraser match up, when the Big Reds defeated the Ramblers for their first victory of the season. They ended with a final score of 69-48. Their second victory was against Stevenson.

Senior Christopher Cotton said, "My mom and dad inspired me to play basketball because they played."

"My friends, family and school keep me motivated to play," added Jordan Galanos (09).

The guys learned respect, responsibility, and determination from the experience of basketball.

"I feel like I can't be touched and no one can stop me when I make important shots," said Deontae Drake (09).

Overall the Big Reds ended their season and. The Varsity team worked together for every game and played tough.

Girls Hit the Ice

Area female skaters had two organized outlets for their talents; Rebels hockey or PH Figure Skating Club

How do you come off one of the best seasons a team has ever played? The Rebels chose the path of going undefeated through their first eight games. They went 9-1 in their first ten games.

Adding to their success was the first victory in Rebel's history over Cranbrook-Kingswood. The final score was 8-3. Jamie Glombowski (09), Brianne Glombowski (10), and Sarah Bachman (08) each scored twice in the win.

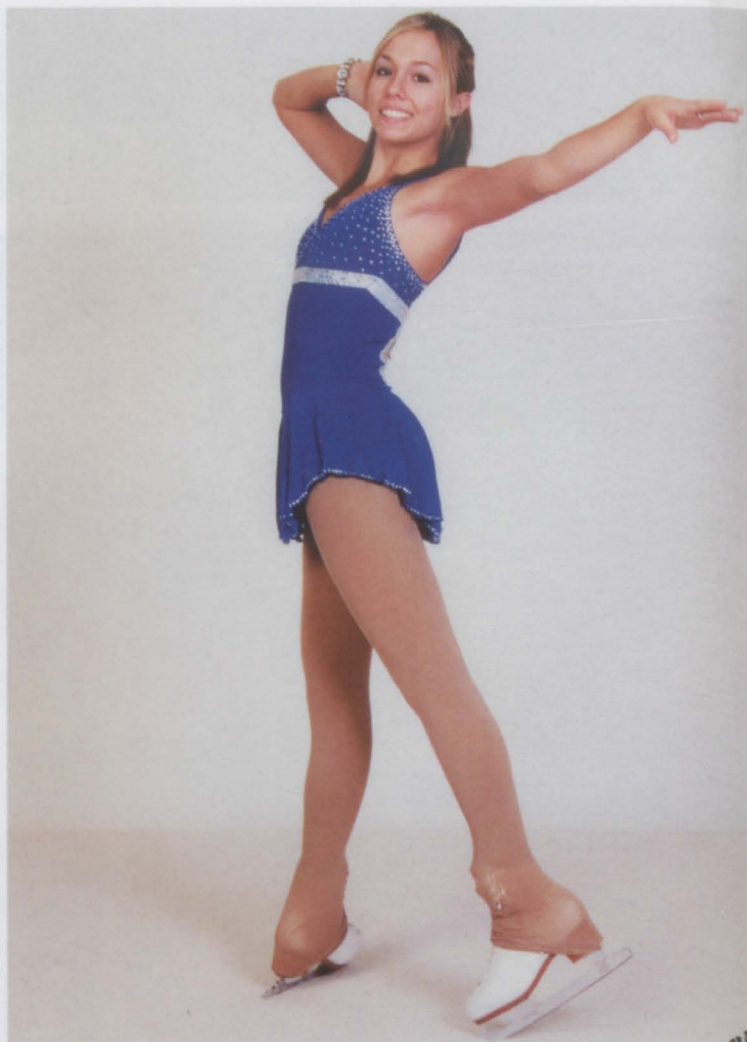

A great accomplishment for the team was their invitation to Silver

Stick.

PHHS saw seven girls suit up and take the ice for the team, which consisted of a 17 player roster. The team was once again a combined effort of PH and PHN. Captain was Maggie Gossman (08), and assistant captains were Sarah Bachman (08), and Kirsten Jex (09).

The Rebels retired jersey number 13, in memory of former member Ashley Janderwski. "Every time we, as a team step out onto the ice we all touch her jersey, and we play for her," said Sarah Bachman (08).

Prior to her performance, Breanna Black (10) poses in her costume.

Seeing Red

In previous years, the team had competed in the MAC White, but were advanced to the MAC Red for this season.

After the departure of their former coach, Mr. Ben Pionk took on the challenge of coaching the team.

Despite coming up short in early games, the boys gained momentum and defeated Brandon Ortinville by a score of 5-4 on February 13. After the Big Reds took a 5-0 lead, Ortinville made a strong four point comeback, but failed to go any farther against Big Red defense.

The team took part in a holiday tournament held at McMorran Arena. They faced off against Northern, but were unable to capitalize.

Although faced with disappointing scores throughout the season, all hope was not lost, as the team took part in the play-offs. The Big Reds took on Anchor Bay during a Division 2 pre-regional game at Glacier Pointe. They were unable to advance, however, as they were defeated by a score of 8-0.

"We had a good group of seniors, and we'll miss them next year, but we had a lot of young kids step up at the end of the year," said Andrew Jowett (09).

Pin It to Win It

One, two and three is the count from the referee as someone gets pinned.

Suspense was high as the guys took the mats. John Knisley (08) took first, Seniors Ryan Davis and Timothy Knisley took second, Joshua Ramos (10) and Michael Sanchez (11) took third.

"My favorite match was my first match of the year, and I was going for first place, and I won in the final seconds," said Connor Palmateer (11).

Conditioning was always a hard workout. The team ran in the hallways every day to build stronger muscles in their legs and ran drills to up their body strength.

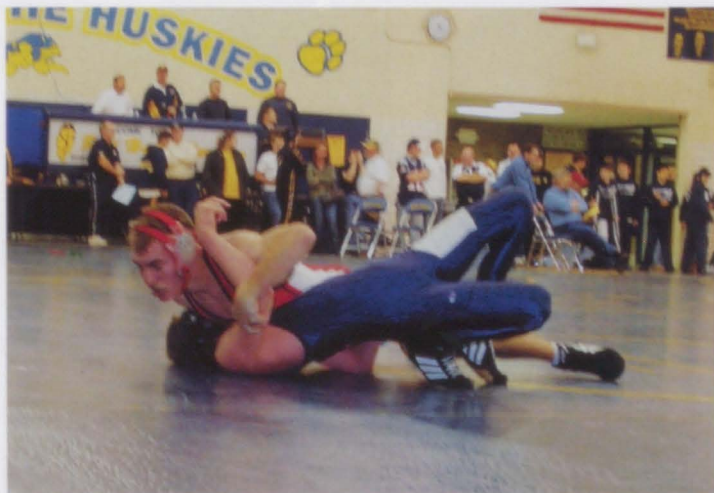

Whether at practice or during a match several team members said that the Half Nelson was the favorite move. Coming close in second was the Cradle.

The wrestling team highlighted the season with a victory over Northern.

A great reason to try out for the team was, "I can hurt someone and not get in trouble!" said William Hilliker (10).

"We are a very young team so our goal this year is to gain experience and improve every-time we step on the mat," said Mr. Dave Reno.

Weighing in at 140 lbs Timothy Knisley (08) takes down his opponent.

There goes Ryan Davis (08) pinning his other player in hopes of a win.

Prepped and Ready

This season the girls had the moves thanks to choreographer Laura Bradneich, who created the new competitive rounds one and three for the '08 season. Mr. Semelsberger graciously paid for the new and unique moves that she had for the team. According to Angellea Griffin (09) "Laura's moves were challenging, but they set us apart from the other teams."

The top job for the teams this season was competition preparation. Due to the new schedule changes, competitions were held throughout the week on top of the regular Saturday morning ones. Practices were busy and useful.

With only eight returning varsity members, new faces were seen wearing the coveted varsity uniform. Six J.V. members were moved up during the November tryouts.

Besides the task of learning the new rounds for competition, the squads also devoted their time to cheering at the boys basketball games. Because of the rigorous practice times most of the games that they were able to cheer at were home, but the girls persuaded their coach into cheering at the always anticipated Northern game where rivalry was high.

Into The Net

Although Lacrosse is a fairly new sport to Port Huron High, it is considered one of the oldest sports to originate from North America.

Although the Lacrosse Team was not organized through the school district, the members were a combined group of athletes from Port Huron High and Port Huron Northern.

"I don't like that the school district doesn't support our team; we have to drive ourselves to all our games," said Matthew Bachler (07).

The boys practices usually consist of footwork drills, running workouts, practicing trick plays and tossing the ball back and forth.

There are ten players on the field for each team, with forty-eight minutes divided into quarters. Each team is allowed two minutes for time outs per each half.

Adam Wilson (10) enjoys the intensity of the game. "My favorite game was against L'Anse Creuse North. There was a lot of action; it was really intense."

Steve Shroder (08) tries to catch the ball before his opponet catches it.

Kent Clark (09) (PHN) prevents the other team from getting the ball.

Bobby Ronsek (09), pushes away from other players while trying to get the ball to the goal.

Making Pins Spin

"I love to bowl because I have been since I was 5, and it's my hobby; it gets my mind off things and I love the challenges," said Caitlyn Gamble (09). Early in the season the most valuable girls player, Staci Hilliard, started 2-0 in her division. Matt and Mike Gossman had been on the team for 4 years and were very solid bowlers, averaging 213 each in the MAC White Conference.

Two changes occurred this year; for one, the team rode a bus whenever they went to a bowling meet. Secondly, the team added new bowlers for a total of 6 girls and 7 boys.

According to the players, bowling was very competitive and the team got loud, especially when they played Northern, the defending State Champions. PH beat Northern 20-10 and the noise level was unbelievable.

"Being my first year on the team I feel I can contribute to the bowling team playing number 2; I feel we can win districts and go far in states. I think it's going to be a great year," said Luke Bodeis (08).

Practices were at Port Huron Lanes on Mon. and Wed. at 3:00 p.m. The head coach of the boys' team was Matt Langolf.

Pledging for Babies

Making bail, and having fun in the process, was what the annual Jail & Bail consisted of for the 52nd event, sponsored by the local March of Dimes.

Volunteers adorned the Port Huron Masonic Temple with a make-shift cell, as they participated in mock trials.

Participants were arraigned on fake charges that were created based on prisoner interests.

After arraignment, prisoners hit the phones, and called family and friends to help bail them out. Pledges could also be collected prior to the event.

Students from PHHS and PHN came together and formed the Cross Team Rivals Team. The group raised $730 toward their bail set for $750.

The Marine City Mariners football team donated a jersey to be auctioned off.

Ms. Jan Barrett was arrested as the Most Wanted Prisoner for the year.

Technically, Wait for the Cue

It all began with the techies; the backstage crew. From the early days of Port Huron High Drama Club, this group held the responsibilities of props, sets, ropes, and sounds.

A few changes have occurred since the completion of the Performing Arts Center. With a high tech sound board, more stage lights, and catwalks, the stage crew needed extra training.

The school district's adult technician, Mark Pearson, ran all the new equipment the first year the PAC was open. Lately, he has helped train students to work the equipment during performances.

Drama Club members formed a backstage crew to take cues on lighting, sounds and props. These students handled all of the Drama Club plays.

"It's so interesting to see what goes on behind the scenes of the plays; we get to sit in the light booth and talk on headsets and cue the lights and the actors/actresses," said Shelby Chisholm (10).

Jamie Koebe (11) waits for the cue to turn on the stage lights.

Mark Pearson shows Megan Morrison (08) how to use the system.

Fine Arts Festival Flourishes

Do a school project and get paid? That's right, if you're a winner in the Fine Arts Festival (FAF).

In May the thirteenth annual Fine Arts Festival was held; once again it was full of great submissions. "It was very creative; there were many unusual and interesting pieces both in art and writing," said Mrs. Rene Hinkley.

Now Taking

the Ice

"Let's Go 'Hawks, Let's Go 'Hawks, Let's Go 'Hawks" was a popular chant among the fans of the new Port Huron Icehawks.

Port Huron saw the hatching of a brand new hockey team, the Icehawks. They were one of six teams in a new league, but played an old-school style hockey, a rougher, more crowd pleasing game.

The team kicked off their home season with a free Fan Fest. Spectators tested their skills in the make-shift arenas on Superior St., or viewed the jerseys from various professional teams. A main attraction was the book signing by Gordie Howe at the evening's game.

At all home games, lucky fans were chosen to spin The Wheel, for a chance to win up to $2,000.

The team brought with them a promotional dance squad, the Hawkettes. They gave performances at every home game. Also appearing at games was Hawkey, the team's mascot.

The Icehawks also showed their appreciation for the youth teams. The featured the Youth Starter of the Game, with the starting lineup, and the Player of Tomorrow during all radio broadcasts of their games.

After receiving the puck from the referee, Gordie Howe prepares for the second of two ceremonial puck drops between the team captains.

During the series opener with Bloomington, Jeremy Tucker takes the draw.

At the start of the face-off, the centers battle for possession of the puck.

As the crowd cheered, the team set up for the opening face-off for the second period.

The Feast of Sainte Claire

The cold weather and rain could not stop the annual Feast of the Ste. Claire from happening last May.

Students from PHHS, PHN and Fraser set up the event.

"Students had many more opportunities this year with helping out," said co-founder Rosaline Burgess.

Off the Farm

Over the summer, many students and staff took part in various fairs throughout the area. From concerts to auctions, and even carnival rides, there was a wide variety of events that entertained spectators.

Silver Stick

Returns

Port Huron saw the return of North America's second largest youth hockey tournament—Silver Stick. This was the seventy-second anniversary for the famed event.

The Blue Water Area saw many teams enter the tournament, as Port Huron teams were given an automatic bid. All other teams were required to win a regional tournament to be eligible for play in Silver Stick. The first weekend there were 80 teams.

Port Huron was the host city for the first and third weekends of the competition, with some games being held in Lapeer. Sarnia, Ontario played host for the middle weekend.

With the growth in the tournament in the recent past, the event added more venues. Many games were played in Flint.

Games in Port Huron were held at McMorran Pavilion, McMorran Main Arena, and both Glacier Pointe Arenas.

Opening ceremonies were held the first Friday night of play, and were in the McMorran Main Arena. All teams scheduled to compete were introduced in parade formation. They were then gathered on the ice for photographs and the singing of the American and Canadian national anthems.

During opening ceremonies, the competing teams gather on the ice for recognition of their accomplishment in making it to the Tournament.

Ice Festival

Is Too Cool

The winter season was not an off-season for the entertainment department for Downtown Port Huron.

For additional excitement to the already busy final weekend of Silver Stick, the city was decorated in a polar scene.

From McMorran to Quay St., ice sculptures lined the streetways, and adorned sidewalks.

Some of the most popular sculptures included the carvings of Ronald McDonald, an elk, and a colorful eye. Some of the carvings were constructed to allow people to sit on them. Observers were able to pose on the life-sized couch, or the mini jet ski for the little ones.

The festival was not complete until the prizes were awarded.

Spectators took part in the penguin hunt, that had them searching for the hidden penguins in various stores, in order to win Ice-hawks tickets.

On Sunday, The Thomas Edison Inn faced-off against Chef Shell's Catering for top honors in the Chili Cook-Off. For $1, viewers could sample the two selections.

Savings bonds were awarded to the people who could detect the most objects in different sculptures.

Guess how much money is in this cool piggy bank, and you could win a savings bond worth $50 courtesy of the people at Chase Bank.

Students Entertain

Imagine a cross between American idol and Dancing with the Stars. PH calls it the Talent Show.

It was a big hit! More than 15 acts of singers, dancers, comedians, rock bands and instrumentalists performed.

Singer Megan Morrison (08) said "I'm always nervous before a performance, but once you finish you feel really good about yourself being able to do something others can't."

For Justin Edwards (08), a member of the band SLR, the opportunity was just what he needed, "I've played my guitar every day for at least four years. Now I don't get nervous, only excited. The crowd most definitely responded well." The group performed Pink Floyd's Money and their own song, All Alone.

Mr. Terry Beasley said, "This was not a competition. It was for fun and entertainment."

The event provided free entertainment to Bigs Reds. Mr. Terry Beasley was the one to organize it. He set a date, made announcements, and held practices.

Stephanie Mieren-dorff (08) said, "I enjoyed the show vey much. They were all wonderful!"

Zachary Carroll (09) and Holland Padgham (09) treat everyone to an acoustic duet.

Caught in the spirit of their vocals were Katie Mertz (10) and Devin Smith (10).

Moving her feet to the beat was an easy feat for Molly Robison (09).

Left: With steady hands, Christopher Burge (09) tests his talent by playing the snare drum.

Marzette Martin (08) plays a wonderful song she composed on the piano, for the talent show.

To impress the crowd Andrew Hart (08) and Justin Edwards play their instruments.

Trying to escape, Joshua Hoffman (07) plays his guitar.

Festival Of Trees

The Festival of Trees is a great way for the people of the community to get involved and help support the hospitals. There were several activities for the children, like decorating cookies, and doing crafts. The NHS also gave the kids free holiday tattoos. As the weekend came to an end, all knew the funds raised would help.

As people walked in, the sign and Christmas trees greeted them in hopes of raising their Christmas spirits.

Lit and decorated trees highlighted the joyous weekend and the money raised helped local hospitals.

Doors with wreaths hung on them lined the middle of the floor, for a quick but enchanting view before visiting Santa and Mrs. Claus.

Cash, Currency and Moolah

From impulse shopper to money saver, Hollister to Target, the students at PHHS had a cornucopia of options for their money.

Senior James Smafield mainly buys clothes, but also said "I like to shop a lot, but I also like to save my money." Sophomore Taylor Hintz mainly buys snacks and admitted to being an impulse shopper.

Jeremy Fry (10) spends his money on shoes at Foot Locker. He said "I'm an impulse shopper, money burns a hole in my pocket."

Jennifer Strauchman (10) said "I tell people that I save my money, but the truth is I spend money whenever I get any."

So whether it's clothes, electronics, or snacks, students love spending money.

Jeniel Greenlaw (10) and Shaquara Crawford (09) show off their "cash."

Danell Alexander (07) sells snacks to a hungry student.

Winter Assembly

Rocks!

With winter break just a few hours away, the student body filled the gymnasium to attend the annual Winter Assembly.

The event started with the choir singing "O, Holy Night". Some members of the Women's Ensemble performed "Santa Baby" with dance moves to top it off. Dalton Carlisle (08) acted as Santa while Amanda Kelley (08), JoLisa Ervin (08), Sarah Johnson (08), Stacie Hein (08), Deaanah Brown (08), and Tara Muir (09) sang to him. Katie Mertz (10) performed the solo for the song. The Women's Ensemble also sang "This Little Babe" and "Carol of the Bells".

Guitar class students Justin Edwards (08), David Jahn (08), and Dylan Johnson (09), play "Sarajevo" by the Trans-Siberian Orchestra.

The Performing Arts class showed a flare of holiday spirit with a rendition of "Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree." Students were dressed as trees as they danced around.

The guitar class played "Queen of the Winter Night" and "Carol of the Bells" with Ahmed Aloul (08) on drums.

The Wind Ensemble played "Here Comes Santa Claus" as Santa (Mr. Rock Stevens) was pulled out by his reindeer, who were played by students. Students who wrote letters to the North Pole were given little presents.

The spirit of the holidays was in all.

Mary Williamson went over the 'List' with Santa to see which students would receive gifts at this year's Winter Assembly.

Sophomore Katie Mertz leads the Womens Ensemble in the song "Santa Baby" as they show off dance moves to give it an added flare.

Wind Ensemble members play The Fight Song, as students leave the gym to go home.

Ahmed Aloul (08) plays the drums while Zachary Carroll (09) and Scott Warner (08) play guitars.

Seniors Katie Dusablon, Caitlin and Chelsey Bonney, and Hannah Kostanecki receive their gifts.

TECH-nology Works

Technological Education Center better known as TEC, gives students the opportunity to leave their high schools and experience a new learning environment. The center is used by students throughout all of St. Clair County.

TEC also gives students a career advantage by offering certification in many different fields. For example the Health careers Program offers certification as a nurse assist after completing the course and taking the certification test.

With a headstart during high school, graduating students have a better chance when applying for jobs because they have already been trained and have the experience.

About 200 PHHS students go to TEC during their AM or PM sessions, with bus transportation provided. The training is paid for by the state, which is another advantage of the program.

The most desired programs offered were Cosmetology, Culinary Arts, Health careers and Auto Mechanics. Public Safety and Electronics are also two programs taught.

"I love going to TEC, Public Safety is the best, and I get to leave school everyday," said Cassandra Martin (09).

After learning the different parts of the brain, students were given the opportunity to dissect a cow eye.

When learning about the brain and its functions a dissection was planned to help the students understand the brain better.

Scrapbookers enjoy the 12 Hour Crop put on by the PHHS Yearbook.

12 Hour Scrapbooking

One of the numerous crafts enjoyed by teenagers is the art of scrapbooking.

Scrapbooking involves creating beautiful pages to display pictures of great lifetime memories.

A popular thing for scrapbookers is attending crops, where they get together and work on their books.

"I love scrapbooking because I get to preserve all my memories," said Cynthia Goble (10).

Extreme Gaming

Whether rain or shine, sleet or snow, in the scorching heat or the dead of night. It could cost from twenty dollars to the outrageous prices reaching up into the hundreds. What ever the weather conditons or the price of the game, dedicated gamers can not wait to be first to get their hands on a copy of the new merchandise.

Popular gaimng devices included the Nintendo Wii, the Playstation 3, and the XBOX 360.

Freshmen Hope Telfer and Jessica Swartz play boxing on the Wii.

Seniors Travis Washington and Christopher Crimmins play the XBOX 360.

HOW to Help Our World

Help Our World (HOW) was a recently formed environmental club.

"I wanted to start an environmental club because it would be a great opportunity to help students get involved in the outdoors around them. It would also be a great chance for us to help protect our environment from things that could make our planet's life shorter," said Emily Mainguy (11), founder of the club.

"I wanted to join so I can learn more about the environment and endangered species," said Lindsay Diller (11).

The group learned about endangered species and learned to identify plants, scat, rocks, bugs birds, and animal tracks.

HOW members planned activities such as Adopt-A-Trail, which was an International program to help clean hiking trails.

A major goal was to restart a recycling program at PHHS. Students had to locate a recycling center which would pick up the paper collected by the members from the classrooms.

HOW members practiced fly tying, to create lures for fishing. The idea was to develop a lifelong hobby with a connection to nature.

A News

Flash

Watch out PH! 'Cause coming at you faster than the speed of light is the new Flash Club.

Founded by Eric Swarts (08), the group used "Macromedia Flash to create 2D animations."

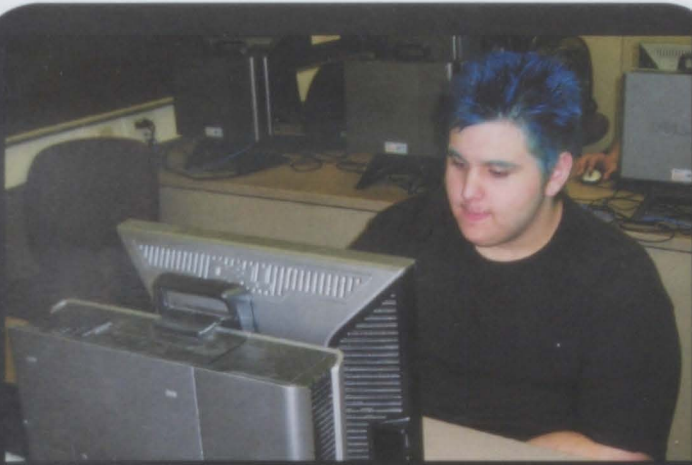

According to organization advisor Mr. Ray Theut, early members started to work with simple movements as they gave their characters actions such as bouncing a ball.

Membership was flexible; students spent as much or as little time as each felt was important. Progress was based on time spent or skill level.

With millions of dollars being spent on video and computer games, this group wanted to get in on the wave of the future.

One great advantage for joining the club was that students could use this advanced programs at no cost. There is no limit to the amount of members and the club wanted to see more students join whether for recreational or career oriented purposes.

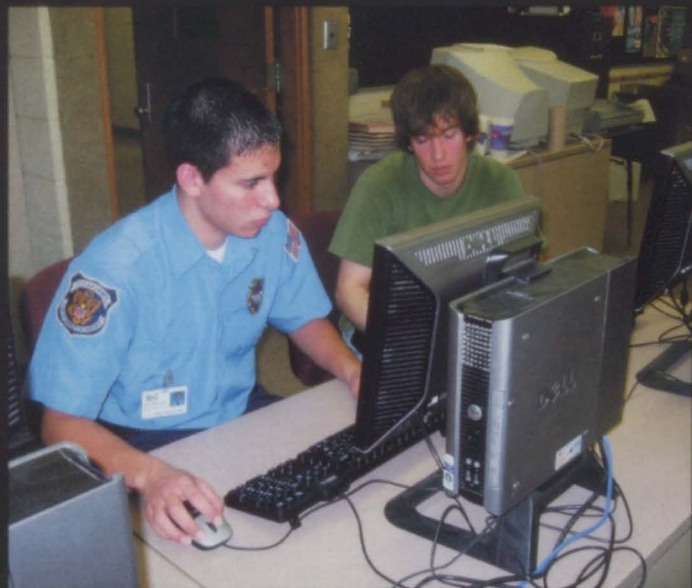

Marcel Mardini (10) works on a project during a meeting.

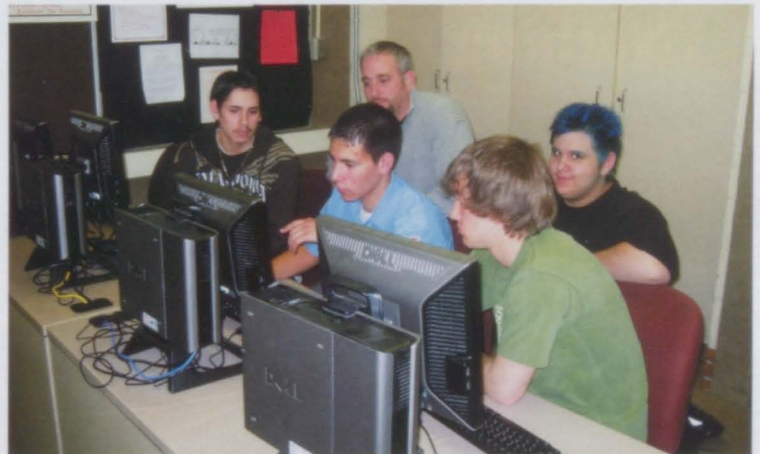

Advisor Mr. Ray Theut checks an animation he created for the Flash Club.

Senior Nicholas Cleveland-Stein explains his animation and process to Eric Swarts (08).

Esteven Casillas, Nicholas Cleveland-Stein (08) and Eric Swarts work on a new program bought by the Flash Club.

Big Reds Spin Out

In the Big Red Spin on Life, students found ways to personalize their schedules, assignments, and free time.

Registering for new courses in February, they covered the requirements, then hit the electives for the classes that would hold their interest.

"Being able to choose your schedule, helps you be able to pick the good teachers," remarked Jeremy Fry (10).

For the seniors, that registration was held on campuses across the state with a variety of universities and tech schools, or applications for jobs to start their careers immediately after graduation.

Of course, not all of the time in second semester was spent on classes;

students found ways to entertain themselves for the 5 ice and Snow Days, as well as the balmy spring weather.

Besides the school sports and clubs, many found outlets in jobs and activities. At home some found comfort in their electronic gizmos--MP3 players, cell phones, TVs and computers. Another interest was driving or owning a car.

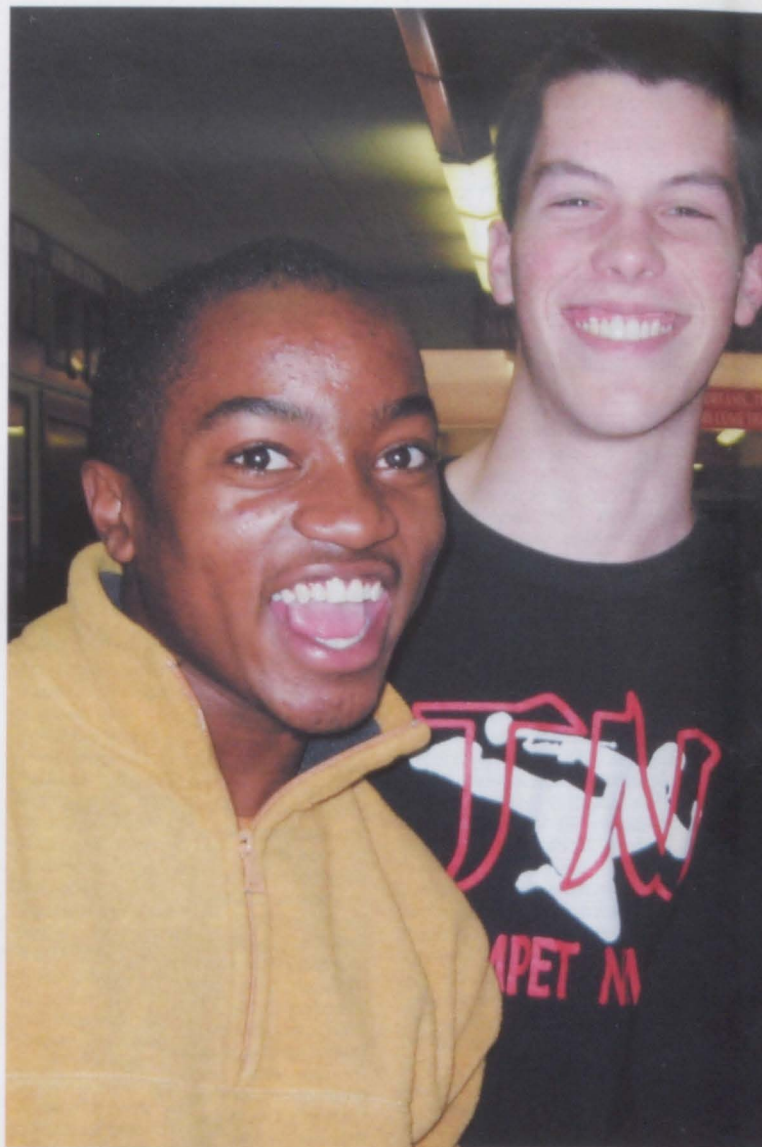

Outside, the active ones worked on their skateboard or snowboard moves, took to the slopes or held neighborhood football and basketball games.

Variety, choices, and individualism had their limits, however. No student disagreed with another at one time--June--as the Big Reds Spun out of school for the summer.

During Drivers Training, Mr. Ron Horn prepares his class on driving instructions before they hit the road.

Seniors Dionte Worthem and Jochlynn Young practice their spinning as they play a game of Twister.

Jeffrey Cates (10), Thomas Fielitz (08), and Rebecka Fugate (09) after lunch.

For the Big Red Wave, Mr. Ken Semelsberger prepares the hot dogs on the grill.

After school, Andrew Pesta (08) shows off his wheels before he takes a spin out of the parking lot.

Colophon

"Big Red Spin on Life" is the 103rd volume of Port Huron High School's yearbook, The Student.

Six hundred twenty-five yearbooks were sold, each containing 208 pages all in full color, for the first time in the school's history. All of the photos with the exception of team pictures, and mugs, were digitally shot and digitally cropped by PHHS students.

The font used for all the headlines was AHJ Galgano, and the font used for all captions and bodycopy was AHJ Avalon 10 pt.

Jessica Koehn and Kristi Radatz designed the page layouts. Herff Jones artist, MD helped design the cover, and Herff Jones Artist Tony Noto, Kristi Radatz, Jessica Koehn, and Mrs. Zauner designed the end sheets.

The book was printed by Herff Jones in Edwardsville, Kansas using Smyth Sewn binding. The trim size was 8 1/2 by 11.

Last year's yearbook, "Beyond the Halls" "007", was rated first prize by American Scholastic Press Association.

The adviser was Mrs. Mary Jane Zauner.
